Uninhabited house leased to Wilmington police officer

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - Six youths have been arrested so far in connection with a robbery in Wilmington that led to a tense lockdown at the Shawsheen Technical High School two weeks ago. Four were arraigned in Woburn District Court Monday on charges ranging from breaking and entering to possession of firearms (including a sawed-off shotgun). All the guns were stolen from the uninhabited house of a Wilmington police officer.

Steven Havery, 17, of Eames Street, Wilmington, Cameron Sanville, 18, of Wilmington, Mark Kloetzer, 21, of Tewksbury, and Joshua Griffin, 19, of Wilmington were all arraigned Monday in Judge Phyllis Broker's courtroom in Woburn District Court. Havery, a young man with short, dark hair and a slim build, stood with his head down for the duration of his time in court. All faced charges of breaking and entering, as well as larceny and possession of various firearms, as well as possession without Firearms Identification (FID). Though Griffin was released on $540 bail, the remaining three suspects were released to 24-hour lockdown in the custody of their families, complete with electronic monitoring ankle bracelets. The suspects may only leave the confines of their homes for appointments with their attorneys until their next court appearance, a pre-trial hearing on January 9.

Two of the six youths arrested are under 17 years old and considered juveniles. Their cases are handled in juvenile court in Lowell District Court.

Court documents reveal that at least 10 Wilmington youths, most attending the Shawsheen Tech, knew about the uninhabited, dilapidated house at 764 Woburn Street in Wilmington. And they knew it held a veritable smorgasbord of weapons, described as "all the cool stuff" in the house, including ammunition scattered on the floor, a grenade, and a sword in addition to numerous firearms and knives. The combination proved irresistible to the young men, ranging in age from 15 to 21 years.

According to police reports, several of the youths broke into the house in the weeks leading up to the lockdown at the Tech on Friday, October 24. Multiple firearms were stolen, including a .22 caliber rifle, a fully loaded .30 caliber semi-automatic rifle, a sawed-off shotgun, and a number of handguns. Further items stolen from the house included a box of arrows, a gas mask, and a variety of knives including a ten-inch "butterfly" knife and a "plunge" knife. Another suspect tried to pry open the handle to a large safe, but just broke it instead.

Four years for Local Heroes

More than 7,500 packages sent to our troops...so far

By CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

WILMINGTON - This Wednesday night Local Heroes Inc. will celebrate its fourth anniversary with a cake and some food, but their primary focus will be - as always - to continue packing boxes to help local troops serving overseas.

According to founder Lou Cimaglia, Local Heroes volunteers have met every Wednesday night at the Wilmington Knights of Columbus to assemble packages to send to our local men and women serving in the Military overseas. They have shipped 7,553 to date.

It all began on November 3, 2004 when four volunteers met for the first time to pack some boxes to ship overseas. "We sent 12 boxes that night and we have not looked back since," said Cimaglia. "We did not know when we would meet again, next week or next month... but the donations started coming in and, well the rest is history. We have averaged 36 boxes a week since."

They have had "big" weeks such as the week they shipped 221 boxes - carrying a cost of $2,500 in postage alone. A typical week averages $600 to $800 a week in postage expenses.

"We at Local Heroes have been humbled by the tremendous support we have received," Cimaglia said. "Local Heroes has no political or organizational association, and has been able to accomplish so much because of the support of so many individuals, schools, companies and organizations. Local Heroes is a vehicle for people to use to support the troops. The Town of Wilmington and surrounding communities have really stepped up to support the troops."

The schools are collecting goods and many Boy and Girl Scout troops donate time and supplies, and especially the Girl Scout Cookies that many soldiers look forward to every year. Many local businesses donate money for postage and supplies to ship and boxes and tape to pack the supplies. Pacific Packaging of Wilmington and Continental Resources in Bedford have donated over 8,000 boxes and Continental Resources has donated 10 lap top computers to send to the troops.

Obama wins

But not in Tewksbury or Wilmington

By JAYNE W. MILLER

TEWKSBURY & WILMINGTON - Showing once again that Tewksbury and Wilmington buck state and national trends, John McCain found a supportive population with the same group that rejected Deval Patrick two years ago. Record voter turnout in both towns, with many first-time voters, helped shape history this year, as Barack Obama became the first African-American elected President of the United States.

Many candidates in both towns ran unopposed and will return once again to Beacon Hill or Congress. In most other races, and with the ballot questions, Tewksbury and Wilmington approved at similar rates to the state.

Both Tewksbury and Wilmington rejected Senator Barack Obama for President, though by very different margins. Tewksbury split 49 percent to 49 percent with 7,679 for

ABCC rules for Sonny's

BOS may grant, or again deny, liquor license

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - The Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission (ABCC) came down with a decision favorable to Sonny's Mobil On The Run last week. In July of this year, the Board of Selectmen denied an application for a transfer of an existing liquor license to Sonny's, which is located at the intersection of Lowell Street and West Street.

Selectmen cited traffic, lack of available parking, proximity to a "dangerous" intersection, accessibility of alcohol to minors, and the expressed views of local residents.

In his appeal of the decision to the ABCC, Sonny's owner Derek Santini alleged that the Board's denial was influenced by the member's engagement in business activities with other liquor license holders.

WILMINGTON - Town Manager Michael Cairra is welcoming Pamela MacKenzie as the Town's new Acting Treasurer/Collector.

MacKenzie, who has worked in the office for more than 20 years, succeeds M. Ronald Mendes, Esq., who resigned from the position on August 29, 2008. Mendes has continued to serve in the position on a part-time basis while the town sought a suitable replacement.

The town conducted a search to fill the position, which resulted in a pool of 19 candidates. Five of those candidates were interviewed as finalists by a screening committee consisting of Assistant Town Manager Jeffrey Hull, Principal Assessor Humphrey Moynihan,

Veterans Day Exhibit in Wilmington's 4th of July Building

WILMINGTON - On Veterans Day, Tuesday, November 11, The Wilmington Historical

Commission will present an exhibit of photos and other memorabilia in the 4th of July Building on Wilmington's Town Common following the Town's Veterans Day Ceremony at 11:00 a.m. A highlight of the exhibit will be the "George Spanos Panels" which feature hundreds of photos of local World War II soldiers collected by the late George Spanos and displayed in his restaurant. WILMINGTON - The railroad line that passes through North Wilmington, now known as the Haverhill Division, was originally called the Western Division of the Boston and Maine Railroad. Eventually, it became the railroad's Portland Division, the main line for trains headed to Maine.

When it opened in 1848, the first train ran at a record-breaking speed, averaging a mile a minute. The railroad had just received a new wood-fired locomotive, built in England. It weighed 10 tons and could pull the equivalent of 35 horses. It had the name "Antelope" in brass plates on the sides of the cab.

Lucius Beebe, a native of Wakefield, wrote of the episode in "Boston and the Boston Legend," published in 1936. Beebe was the author of several books on American railroads.

Charles Minot, general superintendent of the railroad was wise to the value of publicity, and asked a veteran engineer if he could make the run from Boston to Lawrence in 26 minutes.

"Twenty-six miles in 26 minutes?" said the engineer. "It's as good as taking your life in your hands!"

"You take it, and I'll ride with you," replied Minot.

The next day, the most intrepid reporter from each of the Boston newspapers showed up at the depot in Haymarket Square. Each reporter had filed his will with his editor, and he carried a large bandanna handkerchief in his pocket to secure his best hat to his head."

The switches had been spiked along the line, to prevent possible spreading of the rails. Every crossing was guarded by railroad employees and town constables. The right of way was lined with people. It was reported that they were very skeptical.

The Antelope got under way with a vast amount of snorting and a shower of sparks which sent shopkeepers and neighboring householders to their rooftops with wet mops.

In the locomotive, there was

Lucille Ristaino, Carol Roche, Bob Roche, Dorothy Pirrello, Judy Davidson, and Bob Sweet all lined up to sample some food from Tuk, Tuk Fine Thai Cuisine at the Evening of Gourmet Delights held at the Casa de Fior on Sunday, November 2, 2008. ### TAX BREAKS FOR THE DISABLED

To help with financial aspects of living with disability, the tax law offers certain benefits. Social Security disability payments are tax-favored like retirement benefits; tax-free for lower-income people, while others must include 50 to 85 percent of benefits in income. SSI (supplemental security income) is tax-free. Worker's compensation payments are tax-free for a job-related injury only. Disability insurance payments are tax-free if the worker bought his own policy, but not if the employer paid. Payments from the Veterans Administration are tax-free, too.

Medical expenses can be deducted, subject to the same limits as for others, but disability-related medical expenses may include certain home improvements and work-related expenses.

A dependent care credit may kick in, too. If a worker must hire someone to care for a spouse or dependent, up to $3,000 can be claimed for one disabled dependent, $6,000 for two or more.

Let our tax know-how help make care for the disabled easier. Talk to the professionals at consideration.

As a result, Caira approached MacKenzie with the prospect of taking over the duties on an acting basis, and she agreed.

"For more than two months, she has managed the Treasurer/Collector's office in the absence of a full time Treasurer/Collector, and she has proven to have an excellent grasp of the myriad of responsibilities inherent in that important department," Caira said.

MacKenzie first began working in the Treasurer/Collector's office as a junior clerk in 1987 and was soon promoted to the position of senior clerk. In late 1988 she was promoted to the position of Assistant Collector. In 2002, she was appointed to the position of Deputy Treasurer/Collector as part of an overall reorganization of the department.

"In that capacity she assumed the role of Deputy Collector, the responsibilities of which had been previously outsourced through a private contractor," Caira said. "During her tenure as Deputy Treasurer Collector she has demonstrated her extensive knowledge of the wide range of laws governing the collection of local taxes."

MacKenzie, who currently resides in Lawrence, has lived in Wilmington for most of her life and is a graduate of Wilmington High School.

"I am fully confident that Ms. MacKenzie has the required knowledge and leadership skills necessary to head the Treasurer/Collector's office," Caira said. "I am delighted to be able to recognize a career employee whose 21 years of progressively responsible work experience have prepared her well for this important assignment. I look forward to working with Pam to ensure the stability of the Town's resources and to continue to improve upon the Town's financial condition."

25 Years Ago in Wilmington

By KAITLIN HANLEY

The November 2, 1983, Wilmington edition of the Town Crier noted that:

Ben Restuccia, owner of the former Wilmington Ford, bought an address on 220 Main Street, which had formerly been a gas station. He hoped that he would be able to obtain an auto license for the property.

Traffic on Route 62 in North Wilmington would be stopped temporarily because of the replacement of the railroad crossing. Traffic would be detoured to Concord Street and Route 93. It would take all day Sunday and most of the day on Monday to complete the project.

Although many voted for a $7.25 million renovation for Wilmington High School at a town meeting, the question will be posed different on a private ballot as a Prop. 2 1/2 override. If no override is approved, then the renovation project will not take place.

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce sent out a survey to help keep electric rates from spiking. The Chamber began to notice that Reading Municipal Light increased the electricity rate because Wilmington used more than 60% of its light source.

A surprise party took place celebrating Edith Cunningham's achievement for earning a degree in gerontology.

A street named "Great Neck Drive" was added to Wilmington. The street is located off of Woburn Street in Wilmington.

The Wilmington Wildcats lost to Chelmsford 35-0 on October 29, 1983. Their next game was scheduled to be played against home team Lawrence on the following Saturday.

Trigger locks on two large guns were easily pried off with knives. Other guns, according to court documents, did not have trigger locks. Some firearms were found on the floor, a desk and a dresser in the house.

Haverty, a resident of Eames Street, lived within walking distance of the house and, according to court documents, showed pictures of guns he took from the house to friends at school. Word about the pictures leaked out and police began an investigation. Interviews of some suspects and witnesses led police to conclude that, "at this time it was a viable possibility that there were several firearms floating around the youth community of the Shawsheen Tech," wrote one Wilmington police officer in court documents. While still pursuing leads to locate the firearms, a simultaneous effort with Billerica Police and the Administration at the Shawsheen Tech initiated the lockdown. None of the firearms were found at the school.

As more information came to light, police asked Officer Stephen LaRivee, who leases the property at 764 Woburn Street, to assess the house and determine if anything was stolen. LaRivee, a firearms instructor for the Wilmington Police Department, had not filed any reports about his house being broken into or any property stolen before the investigation began. He did confirm that the house had been entered illegally that that several functional firearms including rifles, shotguns, and revolvers, were stolen. LaRivee's residence is currently listed on Lowell Street, just over a mile from the Woburn Street structure.

A minor interviewed by Deputy Chief Richter admitted to taking at least two firearms and actually firing them into the woods in a residential neighborhood.

Through witness reports police identified two other suspects, Cameron Sanville, 18, of Wilmington, and Mark Kloetzer, 21, of Tewksbury. Officers, trying to locate Sanville, called his cell phone, which he answered and agreed to meet police at a location on the Tewksbury - Wilmington town line. Sanville, who arrived with Kloetzer in the car, agreed to help police and took them to Kloetzer's home at 7 King Fisher Road in Tewksbury. The young men led police to an older Winnebago camper behind Kloetzer's house where officers found two rifles in the bathroom, a small revolver on the floor, a gas mask, and a box of arrows. One of the rifles was a .30 caliber carbine semiautomatic rifle containing a fully loaded magazine.

Both Sanville and Kloetzer agreed to give statements to police and be free to leave. Later, both suspects spoke to a local daily newspaper about their actions relative to the housebreak and weapons taken from the premises. On October 31, two Wilmington Police officers went to the McDonald's at 212 Main Street, the workplace of both Sanville and Kloetzer, to arrest the two suspects. Prosecutors said in court Monday that the suspects tried to flee the officers by climbing a locked ladder onto the roof of the restaurant. Officers caught a fleeting image of the fleeing suspects, and followed them onto the roof where they were cuffed. Kloetzer complained that they were arrested for what was reported in that newspaper, a clipping of which was found in his front pocket.

Despite numerous attempts, the Crier has been unable to obtain comment from the Wilmington Police Department. As a result, the Crier has not been able to confirm whether all the weapons found in the Woburn Street house are properly registered to Officer LaRivee. Likewise, it is unclear how many weapons were in the house and whether LaRivee was able to provide an itemized inventory of weapons and ammunition being stored in the house.

Spokesman for the Middlesex District Attorney's office, Corey Welford, would only state that the investigation is ongoing and that his office will continue to work with Wilmington Police and to provide further updates as things develop.

According to Massachusetts General Laws section 131L (a), it is unlawful to store or keep any firearm, "unless such weapon is secured in a locked container or equipped with a tamper resistant mechanical lock or other safety device, properly engaged so as to render such weapon inoperable by any person other than the owner or other lawfully authorized user."

ABCC rules for Sonny's

"It is the Applicant's position based upon facts presented at the Hearing and subsequent evidence developed from an investigation by the applicant that the Selectmen's vote was arbitrary, capricious and self-serving," Santini's attorney, Thomas Orlandi, wrote in his appeal to the ABCC. He also wrote that, "The factors listed by the Board of Selectmen [as cause for denial of the transfer] are subterfuge in an attempt to give legitimacy to their position."

The ABCC's decision on the matter, which barely covers a page and a half, disapproved the selectmen's denial.

"The Commission is not persued that there is a lack of parking or that traffic will increase," the ABCC's decision states. "The Local Board did not present any evidence that more delivery trucks would be added with the liquor license. The Commission, further, is not persuaded that the location of the cash register will result in minor sales. Therefore, the Commission remands the matter back to the Local Board and suggests that the Board approve the transfer and change of location."

"I'm pleased that the ABCC reviewed the facts of the case and came back with a favorable decision," Santini said.

The ABCC does not hold authority to order selectmen to approve the license. The Board is expected to take the matter up at its meeting of November 10, at which time it may vote to approve the transfer, vote once again to deny the transfer, or table the matter to a future meeting.

"Personally, I disagree with the ABCC's decision, but based upon my attendance at the hearing, I'm not surprised by it," said Wilmington Town Manager Michael Caira.

If the Board of Selectmen chooses to uphold its denial of the transfer of license and location, Santini may then appeal the decision to Superior Court. A decision by Superior Court would be binding.

no way to secure the cylinder cocks from the engine cab, so after the train had run a few rods to gain momentum, the fireman dropped off, raced ahead, closed the cocks, and jumped aboard again when the driving wheels passed him.

Beebe continues, "The reporters held to their seats and grew pale. Somebody produced a flask of Old Tannery Dew.

"At Somerville crossing, Charlie Minot was wheeling the Antelope at 40 miles an hour and Permberton was helping the fireman throw dry pine into the firebox.

"At Malden the single coach was believed to be on the rails only—at infrequent intervals, and the reporters were lying on the floor asking one another, and God, why they had ever embarked on this ultimate folly.

"At South Reading (Wakefield) the Antelope came into view on the Crystal Pond stretch in such a blaze of brass, red paint and rolling woodsmoke that it was an object of fright."

Cyrus Wakefield, the town's first citizen, was jumping up and down in his Congress gaiters from sheer delighted excitement.

At Reading, the village drunkard took one look at the demon and was strictly sober for a fortnight.

At Ballardvale, Supt. Minot smelled hot metal. He leaned so far out of the cab that he lost his hat, a brand-new white beaver, which had been bought for him in London.

The self-feeding oil cap had not been invented, and when the steam chest became overheated, the fireman crawled out on the running board with an oil can and clung perilously to the cow-catcher while he doused the running parts with liquid paraffin.

The Antelope sounded a piercing whistle for North Andover. A loose stretch of track was encountered. The strap iron rails, torn from the granite ties by the speed of the train, flew up behind in a shower of curling snakeheads.

But the train made Lawrence in 26 minutes.

The reporters were in absolutely no shape to write their stories until they had been introduced by some of the populace to the nearest tap room.

This was the first time a mile a minute had been made on a protracted run. The passengers said they "would never duplicate the performance — it was plainly against the will of God."

Letter to the editor

Thanks to the hundreds who turned out

Dear Editor,

On Saturday, October 27th, hundreds of people arrived at the Billerica Elks Lodge to volunteer to be tested for a bone marrow match for Kerrie McKearney O'Brien of Billerica. Thanks to The Lowell Sun and other area media outlets, the Greater Lowell community is aware of Kerrie's brave struggle with t-cell lymphoma. Kerrie, her husband John, and their three children, ages 13, 10, and 2 are engaged in a desperate struggle with this disease, and the outpouring of love and support far this family makes us weep with gratitude. Thank you to the 269 people whose samples were taken, thank you to the 60 people who were turned away for health reasons, and thank you to the hundreds of family and friends who made the trek to Billerica from as far away as Phoenix to be with us last Saturday. Whether this drive helps Kerrie, or whether it helps some other family, our family has new hope because of this magnificent community. Thank you, everyone.

Wilmington Cooks

by Paula Murphy

With Halloween safely behind us, it time to start thinking about the upcoming holidays. I've received many requests for new ideas for Thanksgiving side dishes lately, so if you have any favorites, please send them to paula.wilmingtoncooks@hotmail.com

This week, Denise DiRienzo wants to share three of her favorite dessert recipes, which are easy to make and sure to please. Denise lives in Wilmington with her husband Mark and three children. She owns the home-based Denise's Day Care, and Mark owns and operates J & N Lawncare, which has been serving Wilmington for 12 years.

Apple Cake

4 eggs
2 cups sugar
¼ cup orange juice
2 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups flour
2 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup vegetable oil
4 apples thinly sliced
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup chopped walnuts

In a large bowl, mix all ingredients except the apples and cinnamon. When everything is thoroughly mixed, stir in apples. Pour into a greased spring form pan. Sprinkle top with cinnamon. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 ½ hours.

Sweet Crackers

(no baking needed!)
1 sleeve of saltine crackers
2 sticks of butter
1 cup of sugar
1 bag of semi-sweet chocolate chips
1 cup chopped walnuts (optional)

Line a cookie sheet with wax paper. Spray with a little Pam. Lay saltines along cookie sheet.

In a saucepan, melt butter and sugar and when bubbling, pour over saltines. Immediately sprinkle the chocolate chips so they melt into the butter. With a butter knife, spread chocolate over the saltines. Sprinkle walnuts over the top. Refrigerate for three hours, then break into pieces.

Fudge

2 1/4 cups sugar
¾ cup evaporated milk
16 marshmallows (you can substitute a container of Fluff)
¼ cup butter
¼ teaspoon salt
1 bag of semi-sweet chocolate chips
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped pecans or walnuts

In a two quart saucepan mix sugar, milk, marshmallows, butter and salt. Stir constantly over medium heat and bring to a boil. Boil for five minutes and remove from heat. Stir in chocolate chips until melted. Stir in nuts and vanilla. Pour into an eight inch square pan. Refrigerate for 3 hours, then cut into squares.

Letter to the editor

Community support with a distinctive flavor

Dear Editor

Sunday, November 2, 2008, turned out to be a fantastic fall day, and the Wilmington Family Counseling Service Evening of Gourmet Delights Tasting Festival was a successful event for the 12th year in a row and dinners had ample time to head home to watch the Patriot's Sunday evening game.

Boosting our fund raising event were generous contributions by Lisa and Austin Cannon, Analog Devices, Textron Systems, and by Danversbank.

Our greatest appreciation, of course, goes to the restaurants whose signature dishes were the delight of all the diners.

Focaccia Restaurant - Italian food reminiscent of the Italian countryside. Register at www.focacciafood.com for a complimentary dinner certificate. Focaccia donated a free dinner coupon to every guest - won First Prize: Sauciest Sauce and Honorable Mention: Pasta Perfection.

Casa di Fior - our host functional hall provides a elegant function facility specializing in weddings, holiday parties, and social functions accommodating from 75-350 guests - not only provided a beautiful setting for the event but also served such superb cuisine that it won: First Prize: Lovely to Look At and Soul Warming Soup and Honorable Mention: Exotic Entrée, Melts in Your Mouth, and Zesty Tidbit.

Piccadilly Pub Restaurant - located at 1795 Main Street in Tewksbury offers a full menu featuring their Famous Fish and Chips, steak, chicken, seafood and pasta won First Prize: Soul Warming Soup and Honorable Mention: Lined up for Seconds.

Horseshoe Grille from North Reading the premier restaurant for award winning ribs, tips and smoked pork, whose pulled pork, baked beans and corn bread won: First Prize: Roasted to Perfection and Honorable Mention: Tex-Mex Stand Out.

Tuk Tuk Fine Thai Cuisine from Tewksbury offers Pad Thai, rice noodles stir fried with egg, chicken shrimp and topped with bean sprouts and peanuts, added an international flavor to the cuisine and won: First Prize: Exotic Entrée; Honorable Mention: Lined Up for Seconds.

We were delighted with Pizza Mia/Uptown Deli & Catering who combines a unique menu experience for walk-in, take-out and delivery, catering for all occasions and any size event, is located at 363 Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington. Its roasted pork and other specialties won: First Prize: Favorite Half-Time Snack; Honorable Mention: Lined up for Seconds.

One of the caterers on whose generous participation over many years we have come to depend is Mastorilli's - the house caterer for the Knights of Columbus, who will cater for you there or at another location in addition to Social and Corporate catering won First Prize: Melts in Your Mouth.

Always a favorite of dessert lovers was Delicious Desserts from Burlington which offers a complete line of breakfast pastry, fancy miniature pastry, tasty Italian cookies, assorted lunch item and so much more won: First Prize: Chocolate Paradise and Honorable Mention: Simply Scrumptious and Sweet Tooth Delight.

Another town restaurant committed to helping the community is Rocco's, whose co-owner, Chucky DePasquale, makes participating in the festival always a priority. With all of the pasta specialties at the festival, his winning First Prize: Lined Up for Seconds is a testament to the quality of their Italian cuisine in their family-owned business of 68 years. Honorable Mention: Just Like Mom's and Pasta Perfect.

We welcomed Back Stage Grille, Main Street, Tewksbury, for the second time. With its policy of community involvement, our tasting festival fundraiser was a perfect venue. Back Stage Grille has a full menu featuring steak, chicken, seafood and pasta. Karaoke every Wednesday. DJ every Thursday. It won Honorable Mention for Soul Warming Soup.

Adding to the evening's ambience was the marvelous music from DJ Mike Hartin from All Occasions Entertainment in Burlington. As MC for the night, Tom Convery kept the event running smoothly and also donated the most silent auction and raffle prizes. Thank you so much for all your efforts on our behalf.

A special thank you to your newspaper for all your preevent publicity. Also, your donation of ads for several weeks has been crucial to making people aware of the event.

Other local sponsors we wish to thank are Hampshire Press for invitation printing, Rapid Reproductions for program printing, Sir Speedy for ticket printing, Sign Station for signs, and B&D Carpets of door prizes. For ticket sales, we also express our appreciation to Pizazz Mia/Uptown Deli & Catering and Focaccia. In this town with 6 Dunkin' Donuts, the donation of coffee from Tom Lacrosse, who owns the Lucci's Plaza, Mobil Station, and North Wilmington Dunkin' Donuts, was most appreciated by all the coffee lovers!

We are most grateful for the outpouring of support from over 100 restaurants, stores, theaters and individuals who have donated silent auction and raffle prizes from Wilmington, surrounding towns, and the greater Boston area. The prizes added to the fun of the evening and also doubled the funds raised.

We are a truly grassroots agency started on a budget of $3000. Through the hard work and ingenuity of many people in the community over our 41 years of service we have provided help for over 12,000 people with over 100,000 counseling and therapy appointments. The community's continued support of our efforts to be a "family safety net in the community," to provide programs in the schools for students, parenting workshops, and programs in conjunction with the Senior Center is most appreciated. ### It was a 'horrible' time

Dear Editor:

On Sunday, October 26, 2008, the Recreation Department sponsored the 41st Annual Horribles Parade. Hundreds of children and their families marched from the Public Safety Building to the Wilmington High School Cafeteria where treats galore awaited all costumed children. To the delight of all, a fire truck and police escort led the way.

We estimate that approximately 675 children participated in this event. The success of an event of this size requires the support of many organizations within town. Special thanks to Anytime Fitness, C & C Donuts at 195 Main Street, Century 21 Starwood, CVS Pharmacy, Kiwanis Club, Realty Executives Northeast, Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks, Tewksbury Walgreens, The Wonder Years Learning Center, Wilmington Sons of Italy, Wilmington Fire Department, Wilmington Fourth of July Committee and the Wilmington Police Department for their generous contributions.

Sincere thanks also to the dozens of volunteers who decorated, distributed candy and in general helped everyone enjoy this Halloween tradition.

I am grateful to everyone who helped to make this event an overwhelming success.

Sincerely yours,
Deborah Cipriani
Recreation Director
Wilmington

Maybe it was just a guess, but a true candy connoisseur know his Halloween loot! Jordan Legere was the winner this year.

Annual Horribles Parade announces winner

WILMINGTON - Jordan Legere, age 5, not only had a chance to show off his Halloween costume, but took a chance to win a prize in the candy guessing contest at the 41st Annual Horribles Parade on Sunday, October 26, 2008.

Jordan's keen eye led him to guess the exact number of caramels stuffed into a candy jar! Good work, Jordan!

Have you guessed how many there were? Jordan was the only person to get it right. He guessed 175!

An inventive way to get kids to eat broccoli

Or Trick-or-Treat; Give Me Something Good To Eat

I spend 364 days of the year yearning for Halloween, and then 1 single day afterwards, regretting it. Did I really need to visit those last few houses on my street? Now, with candy sprawled all over my kitchen table, I'm trying to think of creative ways to unload it without offending my daughter. I'd like to gently guide her back into healthier ways as set forth by the USDA food pyramid.

Luckily, I had such an opportunity at a recent play date. Several neighborhood kids were invited to a friend's house for some post-Halloween fun. The children could wear their costumes one last time before retiring them for the year. Without fear of ripping them, or tearing them, or getting them filthy - all the things moms dread before Halloween. Imagine the joy!

So the kids all show up, wearing their beloved Halloween garb. They sang and danced to tunes from American Idol. The mommies even joined in and put on a few costume-type things themselves - wigs, tiaras, and such from a big box filled with costumes.

After investigating the costume box, I chose a short, pink wig, which caught my eye. Along with a shiny crown and white pearls. Divine. Once all the mommies were outfitted in their new ensembles, they were asked to judge a few dance contests. As if being in costume gave us more credibility as judges.

After a few hearty rounds, hunger set in. That meant snack time - which was nothing short of a circus. Despite the host's attempt to offer a careful balance of snacks - the children were found at the far end of the table, fighting over a small bowl of Halloween candy. It looked like a cartoon - arms and hands flying out of a jumbled dust pile. Wrappers everywhere. Good thing Halloween was over - I doubt any costume was spared.

I felt my stomach grumble, and started to scan the table until I saw something, cast aside on the other end of the room. Could it be? YES! A bowl full of...vegetables!!! I grabbed a few celery sticks and broccoli and happily munched away in my private little bliss. Mmm...

"Ewwwwww!!!!!" a wee child's shriek startled me. "Gross! Why are you eating THAT?" She ran down the hall to tell the others. The Mommy with the pink wig was eating the WEDGED-ABLES.

Not the wedged-ables! Formerly foes on the dancefloor, the kids joined forces to form a band of junk-food-eating meanies. It was then I created my super-hero character, the Broccoli Fairy. For only the Broccoli Fairy could convincingly eat vegetables in front of these bandits and live to tell about it.

I grabbed several stalks and stood firmly before my hecklers. I chomped the heads off the broccoli and braved the onslaught of jeers. Boos, hisses, and empty wrappers were thrown my way. The Broccoli Fairy couldn't just stand there and take that. Not from the likes of junk food eaters. This could only mean one thing.

A Dance-off. With great enthusiasm, I turned on the CD player. I grabbed and chewed several pieces of broccoli and launched into my best dance moves to Danny Noreiga's "Tainted Love" from last season's American Idol.

"Wow. The Broccoli Fairy is so cool!" I heard one kid whisper to another.

That's right, kid. Grab a pencil and take notes. I'm just getting started.

I chomped another broccoli to the nub and then performed an entire medley. The likes of which Paula Abdul herself would bow down to.

"She's getting stronger!" one kid warns group.

"It's the broccoli," another jeers.

Then, something interesting happened. Every time I grabbed a handful of broccoli, a child would steal some out of my hand. This would prompt my exaggerated response, "What? Give that back! Those give me super powers!"

And they'd squeal and giggle and.... eat more broccoli. How clever a foil this was. Deplete the Broccoli Fairy of her super powers in order to win the dance contest!

So, the kids ate the broccoli. And when that was finished they polished off the celery too. A mighty placebo effect revealed itself - the more vegetables the children ate, the better they danced and won the contest. (But really I was the winner, you see, because I got them to eat vegetables.)

Perhaps next year during Halloween, I'll greet them in the doorway with my pink wig and a bowl full of chopped vegetables. In the meantime, if you see your kids getting a little sluggish from candy overload, you just might want to put on a wig or a cape and introduce a vegetable superhero of your own.

If John Lucci Jr. is afraid of a little competition from a mini mart at a gas station then he should fight the fight fairly. Quoting facts from "you tube" is not actually a reliable source. And slandering the competition is the sign a weak person. Shame on you John Lucci Jr. Do you really think "the President" would behave like this? You have lost the respect and loyalty of a lifetime customer.

Festival of Trees returns to Tewksbury Public Library

Every year the Friends invite local groups and businesses to design and set up a tree in the library for the month of December, and they host a gala opening event with music and refreshments. The library becomes a December destination for families to look at the trees and in many cases add an ornament or 2 to the trees put up by the scouts or the PACs from the elementary schools. If your group would like to be part of the festival this year there is still time! You can pick up an application at the library or visit their website and register online. The November 19th deadline is approaching fast!

Mark December 4th on your calendar and join then for the gala opening of the 2008 Festival of trees: enjoy music, goodies and gorgeous holiday displays created by Tewksbury residents, civic groups and businesses. Can't make it on Dec. 4th? Stop by anytime during the month of December: the displays will stay up until January 4th, 2009.

Namibia: Sustainable Development Project

By KATHRYN MARTORANA

Foreign aid is a widely debated topic. Some believe that it is the moral duty of wealthy countries to help those poorer than themselves. Others believe that foreign aid fosters long-term dependence. I believe that both arguments have validity. It is my belief that foreign aid should not be distributed without involving the recipients with either a financial contribution or a time commitment. Emergency situations are the only exceptions to this rule. Sustainability and project ownership are two crucial components to a successful project. I have incorporated these beliefs to structure my own development project in Namibia.

This past August, I was awarded a Kristen Linnea Skvarla Foundation Grant to develop my Namibian school. Having worked at Lano Primary School for ten months, I have gained an understanding of the schools' needs. The school does not have a computer lab or an adequate library. Being a private school and placing fourth in the region for academic excellence, its learners deserve a quality education. Having a computer lab where the learners can gain computer skills will place them at an advantage when entering secondary school.

The computers are provided by an organization called SchoolNet. SchoolNet is an organization that works in partnership with the Namibian Ministry of Education. In order to ensure sustainability for the project I drafted a contract requesting that the school contribute 25% of the total cost and to make the current room ready to safely house the computers (eg. Install metal bars on the windows and a metal door, tile the floor, and purchase computer virus protection software). After adding up the costs of room preparation and the 25% contribution, Lano P.S. will be contributing approximately the same amount as my grant. I believe that it is important to involve all of the constant beneficiaries of a development project. Without doing so, the recipient might not take ownership of the project and the project will fail.

Over the past few weeks, the development project has progressed quite smoothly. We painted the room, the door and bars were installed and the tiles were laid. The five computers arrived from the capital city of Windhoek last week. In addition, there will be a library in the other half of the computer room. The current collection of books is unacceptably low. The books are either outdated or at an inappropriate level for primary school children. Currently, I have received generous book donations from Darien Book Aid (based in CT), GotBooks (a book organization that serves greater Boston), Stop and Swap Book Nook with the help of generous Plaistow Commons Plaza stores (located in Plaistow, NH), Second Hand Book Prose, and a few organizations in Namibia such as

Educational Library Services, Book Den, American Cultural Center Namibia and Edumeds.

While I have met my initial goal of providing five computers and receiving book donations, I am always looking for additional contributions. If you would like to donate, please feel free to contact me at KMartorana@gmail.com. I have created a website which I use to track the projects progress, <http://lanoprimaryschooldevelopmentproj.shutterfly.com/>. It is my hope that I will be able to provide a positive atmosphere for enhancing their reading and computer skills.

Kathryn Martorana is a resident of Andover currently working in Namibia under the Namibian Ministry of Education through a contract with WorldTeach. The Wilmington Kiwanis Club sponsored Kathryn's participation in WorldTeach. Kathryn can be reached via email at KMartorana@gmail.com.

Alan Webber, Executive Director of Wilmington Family Counseling Service posed with a relaxed Carol Golub at the Taste of Wilmington on Sunday at the Casa di Fior. It was Webber's turn to run the show, Golub has been doing it for 39 years prior to her retirement, and is now enjoying a few months off, before starting on her next career. Webber took over in April as Executive Director.

Master of Ceremonies of the Tasting Festival, Tom Convery, joked that Webber, as the new Executive Director, was not told of the responsibilities involved in running the Tasting Festival, or that they were his and his alone!

Members of the Tewksbury Memorial High School Redmen Football team came to the rescue of the TMHS ECHO Club (Earth, Culture and Humanity Organization) this past weekend helping to install the brick pathway in the school courtyard. The ECHO Club held a fundraiser over the last year, selling engraved bricks for the pathway. Due to last minute complications, the installers were not able to complete the job, so in stepped the Redmen football team. Under the guidance of Mark Bradley, from Bradley Landscaping, and with the generous support and donation from Tewksbury Masonry, the job was completed successfully. The new pathway, added to the courtyard, will alleviate swampy conditions in the upcoming bad weather season and add a touch of class to the interior school courtyard. Part of the TMHS school mission is to provide experiences for the students to become contributing members of society. This volunteer work plays a small role in completing that goal.

Record turnout at Burbank YMCA Halloween Bash

READING - Scary costumes, pumpkins, and candy treats filled the Burbank YMCA during the Halloween Bash on Friday, October 24th. Over 600 children and families enjoyed a night full of Halloween fun with fortune telling, candy in the hay stack, scary stories, ghost in the graveyard bowling, a magician, monster bounce house, spider bounce and Halloween crafts.

Those that attended also had the chance to take a tour through the Haunted Hallway filled with spider webs, witches, pirates, and a mad scientist (see photo). "The event was a huge success," said Diana Ganz, Senior Membership Experience Director at the Burbank YMCA. "The crafts and activities got everyone in the Halloween spirit and the haunted hallway was a huge hit. Children in our programs are still talking about how spooky the hallway was."

The Halloween Bash is just one of the many exciting special events held throughout the year at the Burbank YMCA in Reading. For more information about special events at the Burbank YMCA call 781-944-9622 or visit www.ymcaboston.org/burbank.

We welcome men and women, boys and girls of all incomes, faiths and cultures. Serving the communities of Wakefield, Reading, North Reading, Stoneham, and Wilmington, the Burbank YMCA is the place to come this fall for fun and exciting events and programs. We will never turn a family away due to inability to pay.

TMHS Players proud to present fall production:

"You Can't Take It With You!"

Lovers of family comedy need go no farther than TMHS this fall to catch the latest production of the TMHS Drama Club Players.

Recently, Nancy Laws, head of the middle-school drama program, took over for resigned TMHS drama coach, Lauren Sprague. Student Anthony Sacco says of the play, "I'm really excited for this fall's production. I get to speak in a Russian accent, and I love Russian accents."

You Can't Take It with You is a Pulitzer Prize-winning comedic play in three acts by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart.

Tony, the attractive young son of the Kirbys, falls in love with Alice Sycamore and brings his parents to dine at the Sycamore house for an evening of hilarious incidents and mishaps. At first the Sycamores seem mad, but it is not long before you realize that if they are mad, then the rest of the world is madder. Tony knows the Sycamores live the right way, loving and caring for one other, and it is his own family that is truly crazy.

Tickets go on sale in early November. Tickets cost $8 and may be purchased at the door, from a drama club member, or by reserving tickets by calling the TMHS office at 978-640-7825. The production will take place on November 13, 14, and 15 at 7 p.m. A Matinee Show will be held on the 15 at 2:00 p.m.

Demand for blood products increasing

American Red Cross and Wilmington Community team up to boost blood supply

The uncertainty of the times in which we live require a new commitment to maintain a 5-10 day community blood supply.

That's why Wilmington Community, the "Mom's Club of Wilmington", and the American Red Cross are teaming up to help ensure that a safe and adequate blood supply is available when needed. Please continue supporting your family, friends, neighbors and coworkers by donating blood on Sunday, November 9, 2008 at the Wilmington Masonic Lodge, 32 Church Street, Wilmington. The hours for blood donation are 9:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m.

The fact is, nearly 2,000 units of blood are needed each day to help those in need right here in our own community. It is a challenge to collect enough blood to meet the needs of hospital patients year round.

It only takes about an hour of time - and one small pinch - to become a hero to someone in need. Giving the "Gift of Life" is one way to help those in need. Every blood donation is an opportunity to help an accident victim, a surgical patient, or a child battling leukemia, to name a few.

Anyone 17 years of age or older, weighing 110 pounds or more and feeling in good health may be eligible to donate blood. Please call 1-800-GIVE-LIFE (1-800-448-3543) with any questions about donating blood, or visit our website at: www.newenglandblood.org.

Winchester Hospital offers community flu clinic

WOBURN - Every year more than 200,000 people are hospitalized and approximately 36,000 die from the flu, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

To help fight influenza, Winchester Hospital's Community Health Institute will be offering a community flu clinic for adults from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 12 at Baldwin Park I, Suite 207, 12

Alfred St. in Woburn.

Between 5% - 20% of the U.S. population gets the flu each year. Senior citizens, young children and people with chronic health conditions are particularly vulnerable to serious flu complications. Influenza, which is a contagious respiratory illness, can lead to serious health conditions, such as pneumonia, bronchitis, and sinus and ear infections.

The strains of the influenza virus change nearly every year, which is why an annual vaccine is recommended. Vaccination is the best defense against the flu.

The cost for Winchester Hospital's community flu clinic is $22 per person. Cash, check, Visa or MasterCard will be accepted. For more information, please call Winchester Hospital's Community Health Institute at (781) 756-4700.

Tewksbury Senior Topics

Harvest Fair Saturday; Cootie Party Monday; Discovery Workshop next Thurs; Flu shots Nov 25

The Senior Center Annual Harvest Fair will be held this Saturday, November 8th. The Fair will feature vendor tables from local artisans and Senior Center craft class tables. There will also be a "white elephant" table, a Country Store feature with lots of prizes, a bake table and luncheon items. One will also want to check out the Senior Center "Snooti Patooti Boutique Gift Shop and the "Upscale Consignment Boutique".

A note of thanks is extended to all those who patronized and worked the Senior Center Yard Sale this past weekend. The winner of the 50/50 was Jim Trites.

Many thanks are extended to Scott Ripley and his crew for their generosity in helping with the set-up and break-down of tables and chairs for the yard sale. Mr. Ripley does the landscaping at the Senior Center and volunteered to help us this weekend. His time and assistance are very much appreciated.

The Council on Aging and Seniors also extend a very special thanks to Matthew Montecalvo for his excellent work on the Senior Center bocce court and surrounding area this past September/October. By way of his Eagle Scout Project and all those who helped in the project, the bocce court has been refurbished as has the clean up of the overgrown walking area. It is a pleasure to see our youth contribute to the community in such a productive manner. Great job Matthew! The COA and Seniors truly appreciate your generosity and hard work.

Tewksbury Seniors are reminded that dinner will be served at 7:00 p.m. this Thursday at the Elks Thanksgiving Dinner for Seniors. The doors open at 6:00 p.m. Those Seniors utilizing bus transportation for the Elks Dinner are asked to call the Senior Center to find out what time the bus shall begin pickups. One should do so on Wednesday afternoon or Thursday morning. The time will be determined by the number of people taking the bus. Therefore, anyone wishing to use the bus transportation should contact the Director by next Tuesday.

The next Senior Center "Cootie Party" will be held this coming Monday, November 10th at 12:45 p.m. in Hall B. All are welcome.

The Snooti Patooti Boutique Gift Shop at the Senior Center is now officially open. The hours are Monday/Tuesday 12:00 to 8:00 p.m.; Wednesday/Thursday 12:00 to 5:30 p.m.; and Saturday 10:00 to 2:00 p.m. There is an array of great gift choices and many local Artisan pieces one may purchase. While at the Center you will also want to check out the UPScale Boutique which is a wonderful consignment shop. The UPScale hours are: Monday 3:00 to 8:00 p.m.; Tuesday through Thursday 12:00 to 3:00 p.m. There are great finds at both shops. All proceeds from the shops benefit the programs and activities at the Senior Center.

The Senior Center will be closed during the day on Tuesday, November 11th in recognition of Veteran's Day. However, it will be open in the evening for the Piecemaker's meeting.

The following day trips have been planned by the craft class:

- * A visit to the Isabella Steward Art Museum and the No Name Restaurant on Wednesday, November 12th. The trip cost is $36 and lunch is on one's own. The last day to sign up for this trip is tomorrow, Friday the 7th.

The next meeting is scheduled for November 13th at 1:00 p.m. Meetings are held in the conference room. As we approach the holiday season it becomes even harder to cope with the loss of a loved one. Families are encouraged to attend and possibly gain some insight on how to handle the difficulties of the up-coming months.

In the evening on Thursday, November 13th, the Historical Society will hold a "Discovery Workshop" at the Senior Center. This event will start at 7:00 p.m. It will be an evening of identifying old photos.

There are only a couple of tickets available for the Mohegan day trip of Monday, November 17th ($20/person); and, the Pops Holiday Concert at the Lowell Auditorium on Saturday, December 20th ($60/person).

The Silver Tones Band will hold its monthly dance on Friday, November 21st, from 7:00 to 10:30 p.m. Tickets are $10 per person and may be purchased prior to the event or at the door.

- * Allergies to GENTOMYCIN or NEOMYCIN, STREPTOMYCIN and TOBRAMYCIN SULFATE

Winchester Hospital offers brachytherapy

Eligible patients of the Winchester Hospital Radiation Oncology Center may now benefit from new services through the addition of H. Katherine Kim, MD.

Dr. Kim practices brachytherapy, or "seed" implementation, an outpatient procedure used to attack prostate cancer by carefully placing radioactive seeds inside the cancerous tissue. Brachytherapy, which uses seeds about the size of a grain of rice, is a one-time procedure as opposed to multiple rounds of radiation therapy.

Additionally, high-dose rate (HDR) brachytherapy will soon be available to treat breast, gynecologic and skin cancers. HDR can reduce the length of radiation treatment from between six and eight weeks to five days.

"I am so pleased to be a part of the team at the Winchester Hospital Radiation Oncology Center. It is reassuring and exciting to share in delivering latest advances in radiation oncology in a community setting," Dr. Kim said. "Our goal is to make lives of our patients and families easier by providing their care closer to home with the advantage of compassionate staff and the most effective treatments available."

A resident of Newton, Dr. Kim has extensive experience in the field of radiation oncology and special interest in women's oncology. Prior to joining Shields Health Care Group - a partner in the Winchester Hospital Radiation Oncology Center - she was chief of radiation oncology at MetroWest Medical Center in Framingham, which is affiliated with Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center in Boston.

Dr. Kim completed an internship in surgical pathology at Deaconess Hospital in Saint Louis, Mo.; a residency in nuclear medicine at the University of Wisconsin Hospital and Clinics; a residency in internal medicine at the Boston Veterans Administration Medical Center; and residencies in radiation oncology at the University of Chicago Medical Center and University of Michigan Medicine Center. She completed a fellowship at the Joint Center for Radiation Therapy at Harvard Medical School in Boston.

Dr. Kim earned her doctor of medicine degree and bachelor's degree in science from the Chuang-Ang University School of Medicine in Seoul, Korea. She has held academic appointments at Massachusetts General Hospital, the Joint Center for Radiation Therapy at Harvard Medical School, Brown University School of Medicine, Tufts School of Medicine and Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center.

Certified by the American Board of Radiology and American Board of Nuclear Medicine, Dr. Kim is a member of the American Medical Association, American Society for Therapeutic Radiology and Oncology, Radiological Society of North America, American College of Radiology and Society of Nuclear Medicine.

Located at 620 Washington Street in Winchester, the Winchester Hospital Radiation Oncology Center is a joint venture partnership with Shields Health Care Group which delivers full-service cancer treatment to Winchester Hospital's patients. With this technology, patients are able to obtain all-inclusive medical services for the diagnosis and treatment of cancer through Winchester Hospital. The Winchester Hospital Radiation Oncology Center features four-dimensional CT simulation, image-guided radiation therapy (IGRT) and respiratory gating - three highly advanced forms of cancer treatment offered in very few centers in Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Winchester Hospital's full spectrum of state-of-the-art equipment and cancer services, which are currently delivered at locations throughout the service area, are expected to be housed at the 620 Washington Street site beginning next year. Patients will visit one location for treatment planning, laboratory services, chemotherapy and support services, all designed to maximize patient privacy, comfort and convenience.

To learn more, call Radiation Oncology Center at (781) 756-8300 or visit www.winchesterhospital.org/cancercare.

Working together, three towns expedite permitting, attract business growth

Andover, Tewksbury and Wilmington receive grant to unite their efforts to foster growth

BOSTON - The state Permitting Ombudsman has announced a $300,000 joint grant to Andover, Tewksbury and Wilmington to develop a unified, transparent, and efficient process for municipal permitting on priority development sites. These three municipalities have designated parcels in the Lowell Junction, a contiguous location, as their priority development sites. The funds are being made available through the M.G.L. chapter 43D Expedited Permitting Program that guarantees all required permits will be issued within 180 days.

Chapter 43D was signed into law in August of 2006 to offer the state's communities tools for economic development. Since its passing, it has granted funds to more than 40 towns and cities. By designating a chapter 43D priority development site, the towns are eligible for a chapter 43D planning grant, priority consideration for other state grants, and other important economic development incentives.

"Efficient and transparent permitting is the goal of the 43D program," said April Anderson Lamoureux, State Permit Ombudsman. "This type of planning and local consensus-building attracts development opportunities in the places where the community wants to see growth."

In 2006 the three communities formed the Tri Town Development Task Force in order to plan for development of the Lowell Junction area in anticipation of new highway interchange off Interstate Route 93. The $300,000 chapter 43D grant will help the three towns to establish a form-based code that will support economic growth in the area. The three priority development sites will be unlocked by a new interchange in this area. The three communities united their efforts to cultivate their region, manage new growth, and encourage commerce and employment opportunities in a prime location.

As stated in their joint application, the three towns are "committed to reaching an agreement on a mutually supported master plan that would respect each community's priorities' as outlined in the vision." This application was approved at the Interagency Permitting Board meeting on September 24, 2008.

An additional benefit to participation in the Expedited Permitting Program is that towns signal to the private sector that their community is committed to creating economic opportunities in targeted areas and they are willing to create an efficient and transparent permitting process that works at the speed of business. "When communities commit to proactively planning for business growth and expansion, they send the message that they are not only open for business, but open for business now," said Anderson Lamoureux.

For more information on the chapter 43D program, those interested may visit the MPRO website at www.mass.gov/econ or contact Assistant Project Manager Pamela McCarthy at pamela.mccarthy@massmail.state.ma.us.

Winchester Hospital honored by Massachusetts Department of Public Health

WINCHESTER - Winchester Hospital has received two honors from the Massachusetts Department of Public Health (DPH).

Winchester Hospital was recently presented with a Breastfeeding Achievement Award at the Massachusetts Breastfeeding Coalition's annual conference at the Massachusetts Medical Society in Waltham. The DPH commended Winchester Hospital for eliminating the distribution of formula company discharge gift bags to breastfeeding mothers and their infants, a practice known to undermine breastfeeding success.

Additionally, Winchester Hospital was recently recognized for the "Implementation of the Ten Steps" of the Baby-Friendly Hospital Initiative (BFHI). Launched in 1991, BFHI is an effort by UNICEF and the World Health Organization to ensure that all maternities, whether free-standing or in a hospital, become centers of breastfeeding support.

In a letter to Winchester Hospital, DPH Commissioner John Auerbach said, "Your good work goes beyond the hospital stay; your attention and dedication to actively promoting and supporting breastfeeding impacts the health and well-being of mothers and their newborns for years to come."

"This recognition from the Massachusetts Department of Public Health is a truly exciting achievement," said Ruth Elio, inpatient lactation nurse coordinator at Winchester Hospital. "It means we're meeting the needs of new mothers, in both our inpatient and outpatient areas, so they may achieve their individual breastfeeding goals."

Winchester Hospital's Community Health Institute Outpatient Lactation Center

offers support and education to women, regardless of where they delivered their babies. Guidance is provided in accordance with the World Health Organization and American Academy of Pediatrics, which advise that breast milk is the ideal infant nutrition. International Board Certified Lactation Consultants (IBCLC), who are also registered nurses, are available to assist breastfeeding mothers and babies (both inpatient and outpatient).

Breastfeeding mothers are invited to schedule an individual consultation with a lactation consultant. These professionals are available for general support, as well as questions regarding painful breastfeeding, a baby's slow weight gain, inadequate diaper output and other issues.

Additionally, the Outpatient Lactation Center's Lactation Boutique carries a variety of breastfeeding supplies. Products include breast pumps for rental and purchase, custom fit nursing bras, breastfeeding pillows and nursing covers. The boutique is open Tuesdays and Thursdays, 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., or by appointment Monday through Friday. The center also offers a Nursing Mothers Group that is open to all local breastfeeding mothers. The group meets on Wednesdays from 1:30 to 3 p.m. in the Keating Conference Room on the first floor of Baldwin Park I, 12 Alfred St. in Woburn.

The Winchester Hospital Outpatient Lactation Center is located at Baldwin Park I, 12 Alfred St., Suite 100 in Woburn. To schedule a consultation with an International Board Certified Lactation Consultant or learn more about the Lactation Boutique or Nursing Mothers Group, call (781) 736-4788 or visit www.winchesterhospital.org.

Obama wins... But not in Tewksbury or Wilmington

Kelli Murray voted at Wilmington Town Hall.

McCain to 7,615 for Obama. McCain had a slightly larger margin in Wilmington, beating out Obama by 111 votes at 5,923 to 5,812. The Boston Globe erroneously dubbed Wilmington the worst town in Massachusetts for Obama and the Best Town for McCain because it had erroneously reported that Obama received 1,812, or only 23 percent of the vote.

Constitution Party candidates Baldwin and Castle won 25 votes in Tewksbury and 21 in Wilmington. Liberty Party Candidates Barr and Root won 59 votes in Tewksbury and 42 in Wilmington. Green party candidates McKinney and Clemente won 16 votes in Tewksbury and 20 in Wilmington and Independent party candidates Nader and Gonzalez won 145 votes in Tewksbury and 111 in Wilmington. 85 people in Tewksbury and 67 in Wilmington left blanks for President. Tewksbury had 103 write-ins and Wilmington 42.

Senator John Kerry faced a serious challenger in Jeff Beatty in his bid for reelection, but barely missed a beat, trouncing the former member of Delta Force by nearly two to one in the state. In Wilmington and Tewksbury, the vote was a bit closer. Wilmington voted 6,609 for Kerry with 4,706 for Beatty while Tewksbury went 8,636 for Kerry and 6,094 for Beatty. Robert Underwood won 497 votes in Tewksbury and 293 in Wilmington. Tewksbury had 485 blanks; Wilmington had 367 blanks, while write-ins were 15 in Tewksbury and 6 in Wilmington.

Niki Tsongas won uncontested reelection to her Representative seat in Tewksbury with 11,834 votes, 3598 blanks, and 295 write-ins. In Wilmington, incumbent John Tierney beat out Richard Baker 7,443 to 3,708. 874 voters left the ballot blank and 17 thought of someone to write-in.

Councillor Mary-Ellen Manning won an uncontested race the Governor's Council with 10,653 votes in Tewksbury and 7,801 in Wilmington. Tewksbury had 4,886 blanks and 188 write-ins while Wilmington had 131 write-ins and 4,110 blanks.

Wilmington reelected Bruce Tarr for State Senator in an uncontested election with 5,922 votes, 86 write-ins, and 3,419 blanks. Tewksbury likewise reelected Senator Susan Tucker in an uncontested race with 11,429 votes, 4,098 blanks, and 200 write-ins.

Tewksbury and Wilmington together reelected Representative James Miceli to Beacon Hill with 4,660 votes in Wilmington and 8,990 in Tewksbury. Tewksbury had 2,316 blanks and 125 write-ins; Wilmington had 1,748 blanks and 114 write-ins.

Wilmington reelected Rep. Charles Murphy in Precinct 3 with 1,347 votes, 15 write-ins, and 706 blanks. Tewksbury reelected Re. Barry Finegold in Precincts 3 and 3A with 2,820 votes, 1,418 blanks, and 125 write-ins.

Tara DeCristofaro replaced the disgraced John Buonomo with 6,554 votes in Wilmington and 10,459 in Tewksbury. Wilmington had 100 write-ins and 3,615 blanks. Tewksbury had 5,080 blanks and 188 write-ins.

For the ballot questions Tewksbury and Wilmington roughly followed the voting trends of the state, with the exception of Questions 3 in Tewksbury.

The state voted not to eliminate the income tax by 69 percent voting no and 31 percent voting yes. Wilmington and Tewksbury voted 68 and 63 percent against the measure respectively with 9,685 and 7,971. 32 percent and 37 percent supported ridding the state of income tax by January 2010 with 5,687 in Tewksbury and 3,809 in Wilmington.

For Question 2, a measure to decriminalize small amounts of marijuana intended for personal use, the State approved the measure 65 percent to 35 percent. Tewksbury and Wilmington contributed with the exact same percentage distribution with 62 percent voting in favor of the measure and 38 percent against in both towns. Specifically, 9,639 in Tewksbury and 7,306 in Wilmington voted yes and 5,832 and 4,519 voted no respectively.

Question 3, which aims to end dog racing in Massachusetts, passed the state by a narrower margin of 56 to 44 percent. Wilmington, by percent, voted 50-50, but looking at the numbers narrowly approved the measure with 5,829 no votes and 5,938 yes. Tewksbury, rejected the question by a greater margin voting 7,893 no and 7,507 yes, a two percent difference.

Turnout

Secretary of State William Galvin predicted a statewide turnout of 70 percent of registered voters. Tewksbury exceeded that with 79 percent, and Wilmington likewise turned out 76 percent with 15,727 and 12,042 respectively.

Tewksbury gained a tremendous amount of new voter registrations this year, said Town Clerk Mary-Ann Nichols last week, registering 528 new voters since the September 16 election alone. In April of 2007, Tewksbury has 18,640 voters but Tuesday has 19,990 registered voters, a mere 10 voters away from twenty thousand.

"This is the largest field of registered voters ever," said Nichols. "We have a lot of young people and a lot of people in their 70s who had never voted before."

Wilmington police logs indicated that with voter turnout so goes the traffic patterns. Though not prophetic, Wilmington streets experienced some congestion Tuesday with the high voter turnout, especially those voting before and after work.

Holiday performance opportunity packed with music and fun

Tewksbury bank robbery leads to school lockdown

By JAYNE W. MILLER

TWEEKSBURY - A bank robbery Monday morning put an elementary school into lockdown and merited a K9 response and a state police helicopter support. As of Tuesday, the suspect is still on the loose.

At 10:43 a.m., a bank hold-up alarm went to Tewksbury police for Stoneham Savings Bank located at 2171 Main Street. Police sent all available units to the bank and advised the Louise Davy Trahan School to go into lockdown as a precaution.

The suspect, a white male, entered the bank and held a note up to a teller demanding bills in hundred, fifty, and twenty-dollar denominations. The note did not state that he had a weapon nor did the suspect appear armed. The suspect's note, which he kept, also ordered the teller not to put a dye pack into the bag with the cash.

After the teller filled the bag, the suspect checked it to ensure no dye pack was added before exiting the bank on foot, headed toward Wilmington.

Police indicate only a small amount of cash was stolen and the suspect is still at large. No one was injured in the robbery.

Tewksbury's K9 unit, Sergeant Tim Kelly and his partner Ali responded to the scene to try to locate the suspect. Inspector Pratt and Sergeants Westaway and Casey also responded, along with the patrol division that set up a perimeter.

The Massachusetts State Police helicopter was already airborne and monitoring police channels when information about the robbery went out. The helicopter responded to the scene to support the search for the suspect from the air.

"They were of great assistance to us," Deputy Police Chief Tim Sheehan told the Crier. "The lockdown had students returning to their classrooms and half-day students watching a movie in a room without windows. According to one Kindergarten interviewed by the Crier Monday afternoon, the movie was Disney's Pocahontas."

Mid-day students normally depart the school at 11:15 a.m., but busses were delayed due to the lockdown by approximately an hour. Because the initial

"One Call" system notification from Superintendent Dr. Christine McGrath went out at approximately 11:38 a.m., parents waiting outside for returning children missed the call. The all clear went out just before noon and busses were released shortly thereafter.

The District Security Team secured the outside of the building during the lockdown, assisted by Tewksbury Police, including Chief Al Donovan. Parents that went to retrieve children at the school parked across Main Street at the Methodist Church, said McGrath.

"We certainly locked this facility down per instruction from Tewksbury Police as a precautionary measure. I would just compliment the administration, the faculty, the staff and most importantly the children for their calm response," praised McGrath. "Dr. Foster used a calm tone of voice and youngsters respond to that."

"I want to thank parents and guardians for their spirit of cooperation," said McGrath.

"The coordination was very good," said Sheehan of the efforts between School Department officials and police. Police believe the suspect actually got into a vehicle and fled the scene after leaving the immediate area of the bank on foot. No witnesses saw a vehicle. After police canvassed the area they gave the all clear to the Trahan School and the 'ok' to return to normal daily business. Officers helped with the release of the half day preschool and kindergarten students.

The suspect is described as a white male between 6-feet and 6-feet, 3-inches, with a slim

Local Heroes turns 4!

The volunteers of Local Heroes are not just supporting our troops; they are supporting each other through very emotional times. Everyone has his or her own reasons for being at the weekly gathering. Some have loved ones currently serving overseas. Some have loved ones about to depart. Others are fortunate enough to have had their loved ones return home, but continue to attend for camaraderie, or because they know how much the packages mean to the troops, or with the hopes of helping others who now have someone overseas. Others have no loved ones currently serving, but have their own personal reasons for volunteering their time or resources.

While some volunteers diligently pack boxes and leave hand written messages inside the box flaps, others visit with each other or browse through the binders full of mementos that are out on a table each week. The books are filled with thank you notes and photos from troops, newspaper clippings, and a few heart wrenching stories of those injured or killed in action.

They remember Local Hero SSGT Jose Pequeno, who was injured on March 1, 2006 in Iraq and who remains in a coma in Walter Reed Hospital. Local Heroes PFC John F. Landry Jr. was killed in Iraq on March 17, 2007, and LCPL Steven West died in Thailand on July 2, 2008 while on active duty with the Marines.

Each week any family in attendance can pack one box to send to a loved one. Families that don't have a service member overseas are assigned names from a list of more than 100 service men and women who receive Local Heroes packages and share them with others around them.

Cimaglia said they run fundraisers every three or four months to pay for the postage and to purchase supplies. They have held appreciation dinners, 50's nights, comedy nights, golf tournaments, cook outs, and this past September Local Heroes sponsored its third annual Motorcycle Run.

"Every fundraiser we run is a sell out, again showing the great support and respect people have for the troops," Cimaglia said. "The troops really appreciate all the support; we have four scrapbooks full of thank you letters and 14 flags that have flown over different bases in Iraq and Afghanistan."

Cimaglia feels blessed that so many young servicemen and women have dropped in to say thank-you while on leave, or after finishing their tour of duty.

Cimaglia always asks them if they would like to pack a box for themselves, and some do. He remembers one young soldier who loved sunflower seeds. He filled an entire box with nothing but seeds. He was on leave and was going back to Iraq the very next day.

"Of all the things Local Heroes has accomplished, I am very proud of the fact we have become a 'support group' for so many families," said Cimaglia. On any given Wednesday night there may be 40 or 50 volunteers to help pack and many of them have a love one serving overseas. They can pack a box for their loved one and talk to many families experiencing the same feelings.

Cimaglia would also like to remind everyone that Veterans Day ceremonies are next Tuesday, November 11, at 11:00 a.m. on Wilmington Town Common.

Cimaglia said, "We must never forget these brave men and all the men and women who have served and are currently serving in the military. A veteran is someone who, at one point in his life wrote a blank check made payable to The

Boys Soccer team polishes off impressive regular season

Gearing up for a state tournament run

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Heading into this week's Division 2 North sectional tournament, Wilmington High School boys' soccer coach Steve Scanlon realizes the team's very impressive 13-1-4 record and 17-game current unbeaten streak means nothing. After all the post-season is completely brand new, and has so many tough foes.

"The knock on us is we have middle of the bracket like Concord-Carlisle, who started off 2-5 and finished 10-5, and they are going to be a tough draw as any. We know the teams from (the Cape Ann League) can all play, and then there's other teams from the Dual County League, some teams from the Middlesex League that are tough, and I know Swampscott has a good team. It's going to be a very tough bracket. You're going to have to earn your wins."

The Wilmington High School boys soccer team completed a tremendous regular season, including riding a 17-game unbeaten streak and finishing league play unbeaten. The team will be playing in the state tournament starting this week. The team's seniors -- including back row from left Dylan Reed, Colin Wilson, Kenny Vassallo, Jon Spurr and Bobby Folk, with front row Ryan Kennedy left and Jason Pereira, right -- will be looking to keep the successful season going. - Scanlon also guided the WHS Ice Hockey team to a 17-3-4 overall record, including a trip to the Division 2 state final back in March, giving him a combined record of 30-4-8 between ice hockey and boys soccer in 2008.

In each of the past two seasons, the Wildcats have lost in the first round by Stoneham. Last November the Spartans won 1-0, in penalty kicks. In 2006, Stoneham won 3-1 with the Wildcats putting on a late charge.

The last time the Wildcats won a post-season game came in 2005 against a tough Chelsea team, before league rival Masconomet edged them out 3-1 in the second round.

The 2008 pairings were announced by the MIAA on Wednesday after the Town Crier went to press. Scanlon attended a pre-seeding meeting on Tuesday night and from that he gathered that as many as 21 or possibly 22 teams have qualified. Many things can change from that meeting to when the seedings are actually announced. But if things remain the same, Scanlon thought his team would be seeded fourth behind Masco, Jeremiah Burke and Chelsea, and would go right to the quarterfinal round with a home match-up most likely Sunday.

Last year the Wildcats were seeded fifth and were defeated by the No. 12 seed Stoneham in penalty kicks after the teams were scoreless through regulation and overtime.

"We definitely outplayed them last year," said Scanlon. "I think by as much of a 80-20 margin. We just couldn't score. I think last year we may have had a couple of more go-to players than we have this year, but I think we're more bal-

Wilson sweeps away all the credit

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Growing up as the youngest of three boys, it didn't take Colin Wilson too long before he was handed a soccer ball in the backyard. His father, Tim, and his two brothers Sean and Brian shared their love, passion and knowledge of the game to Colin, and that unique style is shown every minute of every game that the senior tri-captain has played in a Wildcat uniform.

That drive to succeed and that fire in his belly has helped Colin not only play like an all-star all season long, but has drastically helped the entire defensive unit become an incredible force this entire season. The sweeper-back has helped the Wildcats give up an average of 0.72 goals per game, which includes 9 shut outs and holding opponents to one or less goals in 16 of the 18 games.

Just like he said his love for the game started with his father and his brothers, Wilson again gave much of the credit of defensive credit to his surrounding partners.

"If the guys come to the field and do their jobs, it's more of them making me look good than anything else," he said. "If they listen like when I tell them to pull up and stuff like that, that's the hard part. But playing with Gott (Saenchandi), Colin (Foley) and Dylan (Reed) is the easy part for me. They all just make me look good."

Wilson is one of the tri-captains along with Jon Spurr and Jason Pereira. The three of them have all had tremendous seasons, and have all been huge reasons why the team has duplicated its amazing 13-1-4 overall record from last year to this year. The 2007 club was loaded with individual talent, which helped the Wildcats capture a share of its first ever Cape Ann League title, while advancing to the Division 2 North tournament before losing in the first round to Stoneham, 1-0, in penalty kicks. Losing almost half of that roster from last year hasn't stopped Wilson or this year's team from piling up the milestones including posting a 17-game unbeaten streak and going the entire league schedule unbeaten.

"I never expected us to be this good after last year," said Wilson. "But then in pre-season we just became more of a team right away. We blended really well together. I think we play with more of a team effort and it's not just one or two guys. I think we're just better as a unit."

While Pereira and Spurr got their accolades being named

Girls Soccer teams draws Central Catholic in first round

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

In a must-win to continue its season, the Wilmington High School girls' soccer team came out flying scoring two goals in the first five minutes on its way to a 6-0 win and more importantly a post-season berth.

Seniors Stephanie Benson, Charlotte Jensen, Lauren Nasiff and Lisa Rooker scored single goals to help lead the way past Amesbury in a Cape Ann League game held Monday night at Alumni Stadium.

The game was tabbed "Senior Night" as the four senior goal scorers along with Colleen Kennedy, Liz Chin and Nicole Bockus most likely played their final home game, unless the Wildcats play a preliminary game in the state tournament. The Wildcats needed the two points after losing their previous four games in order to reach the state tournament for the sixth straight year.

On Wednesday the MIAA released its seedings and the Wildcats will face a very good Central Catholic team at the Lawrence Stadium on Sunday night at 5:00 pm in the first round of the Division 2 North tournament.

After losing 1-0 to Dracut in a non-league game played on Thursday, Wilmington couldn't afford a tie with Amesbury (7-11-0) and needed to win the game outright. Benson and Jensen scored within the first five minutes of the game, setting the tone for the victory, and more importantly extending the season.

"They were really, really disappointed after the Dracut loss," said Wildcat head coach Sue Hendee. "Nobody wanted it to come down to tonight. That's a lot of pressure and anything can happen. You don't know what will happen with the weather, or you don't know what will happen with injuries or whatever, so they were really disappointed that they didn't beat Dracut. They played well on Thursday (against Dracut) and they played well tonight (against Amesbury)."

Since scoring 13 combined goals in the team's three straight wins over Manchester-Essex, Pentucket and Rockport, Wilmington scored just one goal over its last four, thus the big reason for the four-

Jensen made it 2-0. With the ball bouncing around inside Amesbury's end, it went back to Jensen, who was planted just outside the 18-yard box. She saw an opening again to the left side, and drilled a shot about midway up the goal notching her sixth goal of the season. After Chin just missed out on

Boys also will play Sunday

On Wednesday afternoon it was announced that the WHS Boys Soccer team will play Sunday night at 5:00 pm at Alumni Stadium against the winner of Friday's first round match-up between Marblehead and Newburyport.

game losing streak. Benson made sure the scoreless streak came to an end with a very impressive tally inside the first minute of Monday's game. Lauren Nasiff started the play with the ball at midfield near the left sideline. She pushed the ball ahead to Lisa Rooker, who then centered a pass to Benson, who was stationed off the left hand post. Benson took the pass going to her right, and then sent her shot back to the other side with the ball landing inside the left hand post for what turned out to be the game-winning goal.

"I think the seniors really set the tone, and I think Stephanie did a great job of getting out there and scoring one right away," said Hendee.

It was the seniors, for the most part, according to Hendee, who kept the team together, especially after the two previous rough weeks.

"I think we really did outplay Dracut for most of the game," said Hendee. "They know that they had opportunities from before that they didn't take advantage of. They were pretty disappointed that it did come down to this game, so I think they were really focused coming in here tonight."

Just four minutes after Benson's goal, Charlotte

a goal as her shot nailed the far post, Wilmington made it 3-0 before the halftime break. With eight minutes left in the first half, junior Brittney McLaughlin intercepted a pass and booted a high long shot to the far corner for her ninth goal of the season.

The score remained the same until about ten minutes left when the Wildcats found the back of the net three more times. Allison Robbins dished off a great pass to Kaitlyn Souza for the fourth goal of the game. Nasiff and Rooker closed out the scoring, getting goals one minute apart in the final three minutes of the game.

Keeper Jackie Zaremba made all eight saves to record the shut out. She made one dazzling diving stop going to her right just seven minutes into the second half, which was big at the time of the game.

Now Wilmington will have to refocus again for its next game coming in the state tournament. In each of the past two years, the Wildcats have been eliminated in the first round by Belmont, 3-0 last year and 2-0 the season before. Arlington and Bishop Fenwick ended the team's seasons in 2005 and 2004. Back in 2003, Wilmington

Jensen enjoying quite a career

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

On Sunday night, Wilmington High School senior Charlotte Jensen played in her third straight Cape Ann League All-Star game. The center-midfielder has been named a two-time all-conference selection and a three-time league all-star during her very impressive four-year varsity career in a Wildcat uniform. She scored a goal during Sunday's game, and followed that up the next night scoring another during the Wildcats must-win game against Amesbury. Five of her teammates had single goals each as Wilmington came away with a 6-0 victory, which put the team back into the state tournament once again. Jensen will be making her fourth straight post-season appearance and she said that it's up to the players on how much they want to keep this season going.

"We just have to play our game," said Jensen. "We can do the passing and all of that, but we just need to be there and play our game like we all know we can."

Jensen has certainly been one of the program's better players through the years, and that's proven by her all-star and all-league status. She's a very finesse player. She has terrific skill, powerful kicks by both feet, and she sees the field extremely well, setting up teammates with great passes very frequently not only throughout games, but seasons and her career.

"It seems like Charlotte is involved in nearly every scoring opportunity that we have, whether it be from starting the transition from defense to offense, assisting a goal, shooting directly, or being the pass prior to the assist," said head coach Sue Hendee. "Her skill and leadership on the field will be difficult to replace."

Jensen has been a soccer rat for most of her life, and that shows on the field with her smarts, overall hustle and determination to every loose ball. Her two older brothers both played the sport, Ryan at Shawsheen Tech, and Adam, who after suiting up at WHS played briefly at George Washington University. Adam was more of an offensive play-

Shawsheen Tech Sports Wrap-Up

Soccer teams win first round Voc games

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech girls and boys soccer teams both got their post season play off to thrilling starts on Tuesday afternoon, with the girls coming away with a 2-1 overtime victory over North Shore in the first round of the State Vocational Tournament on Tuesday afternoon at Shawsheen, while the boys put in an even longer effort on their way to a 1-0 shootout victory over Greater New Bedford, winning 4-2 on penalty kicks.

Both teams were set to play in the State Vocational Championship games on Wednesday afternoon at Assabet Valley.

On the girls side, the top seeded Lady Rams battled a Northeast team that they had defeated by a score of 6-0 earlier in the season, but coach Doug Michaud says that they faced a much different squad in the rematch.

"Their improvement over the course of the season was remarkable," Michaud said. "It was just unbelievable. And their goalie just did a great job for them. We definitely controlled territorial play, but they played us tough and their goalie was just outstanding."

Junior Jenn Carroll of Wilmington scored the game winner for the Lady Rams just three minutes into the first overtime period on a nice set up from Heather Masse to improve Shawsheen's record on the season to 15-1-3 overall. It was Carroll's 13th goal of the season to go along with 10 assists.

"Heather set her up and Jenn just let go a blast from outside the box and the goalie never had a chance," Michaud said. "That was the kind of shot we were looking for all game, because a lot of our shots earlier were right at the goalie. I was encouraging them to shoot once they got a little closer in and Jenn just put on a great shot."

After battling to a 0-0 tie for most of the game it looked as if there would be no need for overtime when Jenna Zechner potted a goal on a nice give and go assist from Carroll with 7:00 left in the game, but Northeast fought back and tied the game with 3:00 left, finally beating Shawsheen goalie

Stef Warnick of Wilmington who made 12 saves in the game, and putting the top seeded Lady Rams in jeopardy of being bounced in the opening round.

Thanks to the efforts of Carroll and company, however, they will advance, although the Lady Rams were going to be at somewhat of a disadvantage when they took on CAC rival Greater Lowell in the title game on Wednesday afternoon.

Greater Lowell earned their spot in the title game with an opening round on Monday afternoon and had a day of rest on Tuesday while the Lady Rams battled to an overtime game. While nobody had any way of knowing the game would go to overtime of course, Shawsheen coach Doug Michaud was not pleased that his lower seeded opponents were able to get a day off while his team played, with the championship on the line the next day.

"I am not sure why they came up with that, but honestly I don't really think it is fair," Michaud said. Especially where we were the top seed, you would think if anybody got the extra day of rest it would be us."

The Lady Rams beat the Gryphons in both of their meetings this season, and the teams have already established quite the history against each other in voke tournament as well. Shawsheen beat Greater Lowell on penalty kicks last year to earn the voke title, while the Gryphons beat Shawsheen in 2006.

Boys Soccer

The Shawsheen boys faced an even more difficult task in their hopes of advancing to the finals, as the fourth seeded Rams had to travel to top seeded Greater New Bedford for their opening round game. The teams battled back and forth and were deadlocked at 0-0 at the end of regulation before playing two ten minute overtime periods that also remained scoreless.

The Rams got penalty kick goals from Luke Riberio, goalie Mike LaMonica, Tewksbury's Jeff Jaimes and Andrew Puccio to earn the win, while LaMonica did a fine job of turning back Greater New Bedford during not only the shootout period, but also during regulation and overtime when he made nine saves to preserve the shutout.

"Mike made nine saves and at least two of them were of the variety where you said, how did he do that?" Shawsheen coach Dick Barriss said. "We only had nine shots ourselves and that is typical of soccer as you start playing the better teams where your chances are few and far between."

The Rams improved to 11-2-6 overall and were set take on CAC rival Northeast Tech at Assabet Valley on Wednesday night after the girls game.

Riberio got things started for the Rams in the shootout with a goal to make it 1-0 and after Greater New Bedford tied it up, and then both teams missed their second round shots, Barriss made an important decision that helped the Rams secure the victory when he sent LaMonica in to take Shawsheen's third round shot.

"Normally your goalie is one of your best kickers and that is definitely the case with Mike so I wanted him in there," Barriss said. "My only concern was that if he missed, would he take it back to the nest with him when he had to make a save. As it turned out, he came through for us on both ends."

He certainly did. After burying the goal to give the Rams a 2-1 advantage, LaMonica went back to his net and made a great save to give the Rams a clear edge, which was extended even further when Jaimes put one in for a 3-1 advantage. Although Greater New Bedford would respond with a fourth round goal to make it 3-2 the Rams had a chance to win it on their next kick and Puccio made no mistake in pounding home the winner for a 4-2 lead which mathematically eliminated Greater New Bedford.

The Rams got outstanding efforts from many players in the win, and Barriss was particularly impressed with the efforts of Eric McLaughlin along with Tewksbury residents Calvin McMillan and Mark Sarro.

"McLaughlin and McMillan both played all 100 minutes of the game and Sarro came on to replace an injured Mike O'Connell in the first half and played 80 consecutive minutes for us," Barriss said.

With so many minutes being played by so many players, it of course raises the concern of how tired his team may be heading into the title game against Northeast on Wednesday. One key difference for the boy team as opposed to the girls team, however, is that Northeast also played in their semi-final game on Tuesday, so they will be going in with nearly the same fatigue factor as Shawsheen, although they did not play an overtime game in their win over Whittier Tech.

"These kids have played a lot of soccer so I really don't think it will be a big factor," Barriss said. They beat us 1-0 earlier this year and we beat them 2-0, so we are very evenly matched, and whichever team plays better will win."

Both the boys and girls were eagerly awaiting the Division 3 North state tournament seedings which were expected to be announced on Wednesday, as both squads will likely receive high seeds, and possibly even a first round bye based on their outstanding regular seasons.

Volleyball

The Shawsheen volleyball team has already begun state tournament play and the Lady Rams, seeded number two in Division 3 North have already picked up their first tournament win with a 3-1 victory over Matignon in a quarterfinal match on Monday afternoon at Shawsheen.

Shawsheen dropped the first game of the match, but they fought back to earn a 19-25, 25-20, 27-25, 25-15 victory that put them in the semi-finals against Notre Dame Academy on Wednesday night at Shawsheen. It is the second consecutive season that Shawsheen has eliminated Matignon in four sets in the quarterfinals.

"It was a very exciting win for us," Shawsheen coach Chet Flynn said. "They took that first game, but I felt that we were playing well and were maybe just making some mistakes because we were a little overly excited or overly enthusiastic. I did not think it was anything they were doing to us."

After taking the second game rather handily, the Lady Rams found themselves in jeopardy of dropping the third game when they trailed 24-22, but a pair of sophomores stepped up to save the game and ultimately that match for Shawsheen.

First, Jess Houghton served for three straight points to give Shawsheen a 25-24 lead and then after Matignon tied the game at 25-25 fellow sophomore Allison Trayah of Tewksbury served for the two winning points to give the Lady Rams a 2-1 advantage and a clear swing in the momentum.

"That third game was key because we had gone into a little bit of a funk, but Jess came up with some big serves for us and then Allison did as well," Flynn said. "That was very big for two sophomores like that in a pressure situation to come up with so many big serves in a row."

Shawsheen dominated the fourth game to seal the victory and Flynn had little doubt that the third game victory played a role in the ease of the fourth game.

"I think it gave us great momentum heading into the fourth game," Flynn said. "Especially where we had beaten them in our gym in four sets last year, when we took that third game I think it really deflated their sails and they started to play a little tentatively which worked to our benefit."

Along with Houghton and Trayah, the Lady Rams also got an outstanding effort from senior outside hitter Tori Philbrook who had six kills on the day, but actually was even more dominant than that stat would indicate.

"Tori was hitting the ball the best she has in a few weeks, but you have to give Matignon credit, they were able to return a lot of them," Flynn said. "The thing was though, even when they would return them, she had hit it so well, that it moved them out of position offensively."

Just as the quarterfinal win over Matignon was a rematch of last year, so too will be the semi-final clash with Notre Dame, although Shawsheen will be looking for a different outcome, having lost a five-set heartbreaker last season in the semi-finals at Shawsheen.

"They are probably an improved team from last year, based on how well they did in a very difficult league, with a winning record in the MVC," Flynn said. "Their setter, Shayla Belanger was the Co-MVP of MVC Division 2, so we will have to do whatever we can to negate her and try to take advantage wherever we can."

Cross Country

Both the boys and girl cross country teams for Shawsheen Tech had very impressive showings at the State Vocational Cross Country Championship Meet held on Monday at Upper Cape Tech.

The Shawsheen girls won the meet, lead as they were all season long by Tewksbury residents Alyssa Mooney and Abby Pinard, both juniors, among several others. Mooney led the Rams, finishing 3rd overall in 21:07.5 over the 3.1-mile course, as she and teammates Johanne Legrand, Pinard and Grace Brogan received State Voke All-Star honors.

Legrand, just a sophomore, finished 5th overall in a time of 21:38.1 while Pinard finished seventh overall in a time of 21:59.1.

Most impressively, all three Lady Rams finished top 10 in a field of 84 runners. Freshman Brogan was 16th in 22:55.6. Brogan, just a freshman, finished 16th overall in a time of 22:55.6.

Shawsheen needed all the great performances they could get against a talented field, as they earned the victory with 56 points to edge out runner up Blackstone Valley Tech, who scored 59 points, while Greater New Bedford was third among an 11-school field at 85.

The Shawsheen varsity boys were also contenders for their state title but came The Shawsheen varsity boys were also contenders for their state title but came up just short, placing third in a field of 21 teams. Shawsheen (139 points) was topped by Greater New Bedford Tech (105) and state champ Blackstone Valley Tech (74).

Junior Bjorn Hanson was the Rams top finisher, coming in ninth with a time of 17:23.2 while senior Kevin Mahoney took 17th in a time 17:59.7 and senior Travis Craigie took 20th in 18:29.2. All three runners were named state All-Stars for the Rams.

Masco too powerful on the gridiron

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

A much bigger and faster Masconomet Regional football team totaled 469 total yards of offense including scoring 21 unanswered points in the third quarter to lead the Chieftains past the Wilmington Wildcats, 42-21, in a Cape Ann League clash played Friday night at Alumni Stadium.

Masco led 21-14 at halftime, allowing Wilmington to hang on for dear life, before scoring three touchdowns in the third quarter to put the game away. The Chieftains totaled 393 yards on the ground, led by running back Evan Bunker (8 carries, 142 yards) and quarterback Chris Splinter (7 carries, 119 yards) as part of the team's very impressive 13.5 yards per carry average.

The win for Masco puts the team at 3-0 in league play (5-3 overall) and a win against either Pentucket or North Andover puts the Chieftains into the Division 2A playoffs for the third straight year. Wilmington falls to 1-2 in league play and 6-2 overall and are now eliminated from post-season play.

"Maybe you say this after a loss but we try to keep things in perspective," said Wildcat head coach Mike Barry. "With my assistant coaches and my players here, I wouldn't want to be anywhere else. The way these kids prepared for this game, you couldn't possibly have asked for anything more. After I walk out of here with the sting of this loss, that's what I'll remember the most is these kids poured their hearts out getting ready for this game."

"It didn't work out the way we wanted, and the score got lopsided at the end but words can't express how proud I am of this team right now in a lot of ways. That may sound funny after a score like that, but we try to keep things in perspective. Our kids didn't quit, they continued to fight hard and that's why you like coaching in Wilmington. We will regroup and we will be ready for next week."

Wilmington held the edge on the clock (22:59-21:01) and ran more plays from scrimmage (53-46) but gave up too many big plays, which became the ultimate difference in the game. The Chieftains scored on their first play from scrimmage in the first and third quarters, both on runs by Bunker of 53 and 63 yards, respectively, going completely untouched through the middle of the Wildcats defense.

"It was a game score wise at halftime," said Barry. "But we knew that we didn't play better defensively, it would be a tough game. As well as we moved the ball at times in the first half, I thought it would be that much harder to do that again against such an athletic team like them."

After Bunker scored his first touchdown on that 53 yard run, the Chieftains took a 7-0 lead just 2:11 into the game. But the Wildcats responded, and responded very well. Wilmington string together a very impressive drive, going 74 yards, all on the ground, while getting five first downs, and a score with Steve Stewart scoring his first of three touchdowns on the game, this one from four yards out, going up the middle on a QB keeper. Only one play in that series went for double digits in yards as Evan Butters moved to his left just inside mid-field and gained 17 yards, behind a terrific block from wide out Scott Bonica, who was back in the line-up after an ankle injury he suffered two weeks before.

With the game tied at seven, Masco came back knocking the Wildcats down again. This time Clay Cleveland scored his first of two touchdowns on the day, on a 9-yard run on second down, and the conversion kick was good and Masco led 14-7.

But once again the Wildcats retaliated. Behind two big passes from Stewart to Mike Manganelli for a combined 40 yards, Wilmington moved the ball quickly into Masco territory. Facing third-and-one from the two, Stewart again took the keeper up the middle to score his second touchdown, and the game was tied at 14 with 8:02 left in the second quarter.

Masco then scored its third touchdown on its third possession. After moving the chains for two big first downs to the Wildcat 38, Splinter took a QB keeper right up the gut, again going untouched to score a 38-yard touchdown making it 21-14 at halftime.

In the third quarter, it was all Masco. The Chieftains scored three times, totaled 198 yards to just 19 of Wilmington, and put the Wildcats on the canvas for good, with a commanding 42-14 lead after three quarters. Bunker (63 run), Cleveland (13 run) and Splinter (17 run) scored the three touchdowns, before, Stewart scored on a 1-yard run late in the fourth quarter, set-up by a fumble recovered by senior captain Chris Thibault.

Stewart finished the game with 69 rushing yards with three touchdowns, giving him 604 yards and 9 touchdowns on the season. He also completed 5-of-10 passes for 56 yards, giving him 44 completions of 90 attempts for 503 yards with five additional scores. Evan Butters rushed for 86 yards on 15 carries, giving him 580 rushing yards on the season.

As strong as the efforts were from Stewart, Butters and company, Masconomet was just too strong from top to bottom.

"They got good players," said Barry. "They got (jersey numbers) 22, 14, 26, 27, 24 and it's just a cast of characters they have over there that are very athletic and very good. And then have their offensive and defensive lines, too. They stacked the run against us, and then Mike (Manganelli) went down with an injury in the second half and Scott (Bonica) is still recovering from his injury, so that kind of hurt us in the passing game."

Wilmington returns to action on Friday with a short trip to North Andover to take on the 3-5 Scarlet Knights. That will be the team's final road game of the season, concluding with Triton Regional and Tewksbury.

Wilmington High senior Andrew Cazeau makes a catch for the Wildcat football team from a game play earlier this season. Cazeau and the rest of the Wildcats are currently 6-2 on the season.

Wildcats gearing up for a state tournament run

anced and we're much deeper this year. The key for us (this year) was the sophomore group maturing and contributing as quick as they did. We needed the tenth graders to contribute, we needed to get balance scoring and we needed to play good defense and all three fell in place. And I think the kids have done a real nice job of taking it one game at a time."

That incredible focus and team oriented play helped the Wildcats add to a long list of accomplishments.

"We finish with the same exact regular season record as we did last year and I think that's quite an accomplishment," said Scanlon. "We won our final two games this week and we wanted to get those two wins and we also wanted to beat Amesbury to sure ourselves of going unbeaten in league play. I can't recall any team in program history to do that, to finish 10-0-3 in league play. We also finished with a 17-game unbeaten streak and that was also very tough to do."

Besides the unbeaten streaks in the league and through the season, the Wildcats have outscored their opponents 50-13, having been shut out just once a scoreless tie against Rockport. On the flip side of that, the Wildcats post an 0.72 GAA, have nine shut outs and have held opponents to one or less goals in all but two of the 18 games played this season which is an absolutely incredible feat.

Senior captain Jason Pereira led the entire league in scoring with 22 points including 19 goals. Jon Spurr joined Pereira as two of the top 14 players in the league as all-conference selections. The midfielder has done a fantastic job leading the team and coming through in clutch situations time and time again. The team's third captain, Colin Wilson has anchored the team's defense as the sweeper-back. Goalie Marty Bamberg and defenders Dylan Reed and Gott Seanchandi were named league all-stars joining Pereira and Spurr.

Besides the five all-stars and Wilson, a handful of other players have been such key components including the talented sophomore group of Nick Godzyk, Andy Owens and Chris DiCecca, as well as a handful of juniors such as Colin Foley, Michael Murphy and Caleb Rogers to go along with the rest of the seniors including Bobby Folk, Ryan Kennedy and Kenny Vassallo.

This past week Wilmington finished off the regular season with a 5-0 win over Tewksbury and then a 4-0 victory over Amesbury. Pereira scored two goals, while, Rogers, Liam Gately and Owens scored single goals in the win over Tewksbury. Spurr picked up two assists, and Folk, Kennedy, Gately (first varsity goal) and Godzyk had one each.

In the win over Amesbury, Gately, Pereira, Murphy (first varsity goal) and Owens scored goals with DiCecca, Kennedy and Folk picking up the assists. In both games, Bamberg played the first 60 minutes, before being relieved by John Malone and Matheus Jorge, who split the final ten minutes each, all helping in the back-to-back shut outs.

Wilson sweeps away the credit

Cape Ann League All-Conference players, Wilson went unnoticed so to speak without getting tabbed even an all-star spot. But head coach Steve Scanlon realizes that Wilson has been more than a big spot on his team this season.

"Colin's had a good year, really a steady year," said Scanlon. "He's had an all-star caliber season but the problem is he plays a position, sweeper-back, that almost the best kids in the league play so he kind of got boxed out there. But he's done a real good job back there. He organizes well, he knows the game, he knows when to come (up with the ball) and when to stay (back) and he's been a real good leader for us. He really runs that defense very well."

After giving up four goals in the team's first game to a very good Haverhill team, the Wildcats have given up multiple goals just one other time this season. Wilson says once again, that's due to his defensive mates.

"Gott is probably the best player I have ever seen," said Wilson. "He has the best touch I've ever seen. He can put the ball anywhere, and he'll stop any (opposing) forward. And Colin Foley really stepped up and has played great and Dylan Reed (a league all-star) has been fantastic."

Fantastic was the word Colin used when asked about his family's love for the game. Sean attended WHS and was a goalie before transferring to Beaver Country Day and later attending Clemson University. Brian was a defensive back as well and graduated from WHS and now attends Penn State.

"My Dad has such a love for the game and he's been great, and my brothers have helped me become a better player," said Colin. "They told me what I needed to do to get better, and how I had to play year round and they just helped me with the rules and everything else."

Colin is the biggest of the defenders - he'll tell you that he's not the quickest one either. That being said he's very good in the air, he's extremely tough and physical and he knows his surroundings, thus he's fundamentally sound, he has a good touch and he gives strong, effective passes.

"We had some questions about Colin last year when he went in for Nick but he did a nice job as an outside back," said Scanlon. "I think that experience really helped him. He plays very well with the game in front of him. He pushes the ball, he has good skills, he's a hard tackler and he has good size which helps us in the air."

Wilson and the rest of the Wildcats finished off the regular season posting wins against Tewksbury and Amesbury this past week by a combined score of 9-0. Although the Redmen will be one of the 20-something teams in the Division 2 North sectional tournament, all due respect, the Wildcats will be facing much better competition. Wilson is quite confident his boys can hang with the rest of them.

"Right now I'm pretty confident that we can meet up with Masconomet," said Wilson. "But only if we continue to do what we have been doing all season. Hopefully this year will be a lot different. The chemistry we have I think can take us further. We're not looking at any of the previous years. We're just looking forward. I think if we continue to do what we've been doing, we continue to watch each other's backs, we'll be playing Masco in the North final."

And perhaps a ride to the sectional final will only add to memories of the sport Colin Wilson truly loves.

Freshmen girls soccer team posts nine wins

By MIKE GIANNATTASIO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High School girl's freshmen soccer team recently wrapped up another successful season under Coach Nicole Ciaramaglia. The team finished with a 9-3-2 record, and this was the fourth consecutive season that the team posted nine winners or higher.

Ciaramaglia has been involved in the WHS girl's soccer program since her freshman year of high school, as she used to be a player and is currently a coach.

"I have been coaching since the fall of 2005," said Ciaramaglia. "I played four years varsity soccer for WHS and also four years in college. I went to college for teaching and always knew that I had wanted to coach soccer as well."

"The freshmen program in Wilmington started in 2004 and I was asked to coach the freshmen team in 2005. I was extremely excited when I was offered the position. It has been a rewarding experience and I have enjoyed every minute of it. Each year brings a new group of great kids."

Ciaramaglia has been a very successful coach, as the team finished with a 9-1-1 record in 2005, followed by a 9-2-2 record in 2006 and a 11-3-4 record in 2007.

Ciaramaglia said that she looks for many characteristics in her players.

"As a coach, I look for someone who is a 'team leader,'" said Ciaramaglia. "I look for someone that the kids respect and look to as a role model. I also look for someone who is aggressive, skilled, plays hard at all times, continues to make players around her better, enthusiastic, and someone who commands respect from players, opponents and coaches."

She added that there were many players on her team who showed these attributes all season long.

"Each girl on the team played strong throughout the season and improved their level of skill," said Ciaramaglia. "Our endurance and level of skill really showed during games like Andover who we tied twice during the season."

"There were a few girls who played exceptionally well during each game such as Taylor Cushing (sweeper), Emily Crannell (Forward), Caitlin McDonough (mid-field), and Geena DiNiccio." The girl's freshmen team improved all season long, and this was what impressed Ciaramaglia the most.

"My team improved on spreading the field and moving without the ball throughout the entire season," said Ciaramaglia. "Towards the end of the season, the girls were making overlapping runs and passing the ball much better than the beginning of the season."

"We had a great season and I am very proud of each and every girl. They were respectful and worked hard, and it was another fun and successful year."

Lowe and Bentley edge out Macy and River Hawks

By DAN IGO
Sports Correspondent

Tewksbury's Sammy Macy continued her strong regular season play into the Northeast-10 field hockey semifinals. After leading her team to a win, however, she went head-to-head with an old teammate with vastly different results.

Macy had two goals and an assist for the River Hawks in a 3-1 win over Stonehill on Saturday. One Sunday, she led her team to a championship battle against former high school teammate Chrissy Lowe and Bentley.

Macy was unable to muster any scoring, and neither did any of her teammates, as Bentley won a nail-biter 1-0. For her part, Lowe started the game as a midfielder and also started her team's semifinal game.

Vinny Papageorgiou can add another piece of hardware to his trophy case. The freshman goalkeeper at Franklin Pierce was selected to the NE-10's All-Rookie team. He has started the last 15 matches in goal for Franklin Pierce and posted a 0.86 goals against average (2nd NE-10) and .711 save percentage with six shutouts (4th).

Adam Power had a huge game defensively for the WPI football team, albeit in a loss. The sophomore safety had 11 tackles in a 31-14 loss to Hobart on Saturday, which ended the Engineers' chances of a division title. He has 45 tackles on the year, good enough for third on the team.

Chris Byrne once again was active defensively for the Northeastern football team, but unfortunately his team once again was on the losing end of a conference game. The Huskies lost 20-14 on Saturday to Villanova in a game where Byrne had two solo tackles. He now has 18 tackles on the year.

Tewksbury's Kevin McCarthy returned two kicks for 55 yards and had 1.5 tackles for Mass Maritime in a 19-17 loss to Framingham State on Saturday. One of the tackles was for a loss. Wilmington's Kyle Moon, a quarterback, and Tewksbury linebacker Steven Alves also received playing time for the Buccaneers.

Wilmington native Stephen Potner had an assist in UMass Lowell's 2-0 win over Southern New Hampshire last Wednesday. The win clinched a No. 1 seed for the River Hawks soccer team in the conference championship tournament.

Three local female soccer players advanced in the conference tournament for the UMass Lowell soccer team. Tewksbury's Colleen Fitzpatrick and Wilmington's Kathleen Strazzere and Brienne Bozzella all started for the River Hawks in a 1-0 win over Merrimack. They will take on St. Rose on Thursday.

Tewksbury native Eric Webb competed for the Bentley cross-country team in the Northeast-10 Conference Championships. He finished the 8K course with a time of 27:56, which placed him 55th.

Sarah Russell has four assists in 10 games for the Boston University ice hockey team. The senior defenseman and Tewksbury resident appeared in 34 out of 35 games last year for the Lady Terriers.

Wilmington's Mike Fitzgerald had two catches for 12 yards in a 27-14 MIT loss against Plymouth State. The junior now has 13 catches for 243 yards on the season.

Three Wilmington runners competed in Sunday's "TIP 5K" road race held in Lawrence. Rebecca Connolly finished in 12th place with a time of 19:46. She was the first woman to cross the line. Bruce Stone came in 34th place with a time of 25:05. Linda Burns' time of 26:49 placed her 46th.

Five Tewksbury residents competed in Sunday's "Jason Barnes Memorial 5K" in Lowell. Janet Rose finished in 32nd place with a time of 21:22. David Cremin's time of 23:39 placed him 58th. Brian Micicche was right behind him in 63rd place with a time of 23:52. Beth Connors finished in 140th place with a time of 28:56. Jack Kelleher's time of 34:31 placed him 212th.

The "Eighth Annual Larry Robinson 10-miler and 5K" will be held this Sunday at Andover's Indian Ridge Country Club at 9 a.m. For more information, visit the race's website at: <http://www.coolrunning.com/major/08/larryrobinson>.

The "Rose Race 5K Walk/Run" will be held in Lawrence on Sunday at 10 a.m. The race will begin at the Masonic Temple and the course is described as fast, with runners going through downtown and over the Merrimack River. For more information, contact Mary Coppinger Fraser at 978-742-9919.

Jensen enjoying quite a career

er who scored early and often, whereas Charlotte, who certainly can score with the best of them, controls the middle of the field and can certainly takes control of games with her restart kicks.

"Charlotte is just a very consistent, smart player," said Hendee. "She sees the entire field really well. She is the key to our transition, and sends the ball down the middle of the field. And her restarts are just fabulous - that's going to be a tough thing to replace. She has been a strong contributor to our program for four years. Her strengths are in composure, transition and field vision."

Monday night's goal gave Jensen six for the season to go along with her five assists. She was also the team's leading scorer last year. The tally came inside the fifth minute of the must-win game against Amesbury played on Senior Night at Alumni Stadium. Jensen's teammate Stephanie Benson set the tone for the game and the win scoring what turned out to be the game winner within the first minute of play, before Jensen scored the second goal on a beautiful shot midway up the left hand side from over 20 yards out.

Jensen didn't really care about adding to her goal total. It was all about extending the season, at least one more game with hopes of more.

"Yeah (getting the win is) very exciting," she said. "We went out on a bang. All of us really wanted (to win) for the seniors and we wanted to get into (the state tournament) because it's our last year. Tonight everyone was just fired up so once we got out there that just helped us put (the game) away."

Jensen is hoping the team has more goals and more wins in its feet, but either way, she has enjoyed a terrific four-year career.

"Charlotte is upbeat and positive and is well respected by her peers," said Hendee. "Her dedication to academics is as strong as her commitment to the sport of soccer, thus making her an ideal student athlete. She has been a pleasure to coach for the past four years, and we will miss her."

Girls soccer team to take on Central Catholic

defeated Saugus 3-0 at home, before losing to Wakefield, 4-3 in penalty kicks.

"Anything can happen in the tournament," said Hendee. "If the girls come in and play the way they are capable of playing, we can upset some teams. We're obviously going to face a high seed unless we get a preliminary game, but eventually we're going to face a high seed. But a lot of times those teams come in, rolling off their regular season not thinking about the first game and thinking ahead to the second one.

"When we are on, we're capable of scoring and we're capable of playing well. So hopefully we'll put together 80 minutes of good soccer."

This past week the Cape Ann League announced its All-League and All-Star selections. For the second straight year, Charlotte Jensen was named as one of the league's top 14 players, which is an automatic selection to the all-star team. Jensen played in her third straight league-all-star game on Sunday night with teammates Bryanne Mara, Danielle Polcari and Brittney McLaughlin, all juniors. The side that the four Wildcat girls played on won 4-1, with all four goals by Wilmington players, including three from McLaughlin and one from Jensen.

Mite teams remain hot on the ice

The start of fall signifies the beginning of a new and exciting season of youth hockey in Wilmington.

The Mite 1's entered the season with high expectations with the return of a seasoned veteran in Anthony Mckearney, add to that, Connor Benoit, Nathan Dimeco, Mike Ducharme, Tim Kippenberger, Chris Spinazola, Ryan St. Jean, Andrew Sullivan, Dan Woods and Tom Worob all of whom are returning from last year's Mite 2 valley league championship team, mix in a defensive stalwart in Tom Robarge and snipers Ryan Barrett and Dylan Bresnahan and you end up with one great group of teammates.

The Mite 2 team has also bolstered the lineup with appearances by Kyle Bolis, Jared Homola and Jared Venezia all of whom have helped in the teams success.

The team took a little time finding its way through the parity round, splitting the first 10 games with a respectable 4-5-1 record. They have worked hard in practice and the hard work has paid off. The season started to take shape while they were competing in the the Future Stars Tournament held over the Columbus Day weekend. They qualified for the championship game by stringing together 3 hard fought victories over the NH Avalanche, Cambridge and Methuen.

The final game they had plenty of chances but ran up against a hot goalie and lost in overtime to Methuen.

The loss was hard to take but the team has used it as a motivator, and have rallied to run off 6 straight victories to take the top spot in the Valley League's White North division. The season has a ways to go but the fun is just beginning. Way to go Wildcats!

The Mite 1 and Mite 2 will be playing at the TD Banknorth Garden on December 13th before the Bruins game that evening. Tickets are available and anyone interested can find the information on the WYH website @ www.wilmingtonyouthhockey.org and click on the "future Bruins" tab

WCAT and EMARC collaborate on cable access TV READY, SET, ACTION!

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

Everyone seeks a good way to express themselves. However, for the clients who use the services of the Association of Retarded Citizens of East Middlesex (EMARC) it is very difficult to find any good form of self-expression that will help them in the community at large.

Toward that end, an off-the-cuff conversation between the staff at WCAT, Wakefield's Community Access Television, and the administration at EMARC has led to the development of a program where several EMARC clients are transported to Wakefield on a weekly basis. The result has been the development of a class where the EMARC clients, from several communities in the area, are being taught all of the basics involved in producing television programs and public service announcements.

The two instructors, WCAT Program Director Shawn Downs and EMARC Life Choices instructor Cathy Mowers are fully committed to the success of the program. The program is being funded in part by VSA arts of Massachusetts and the Massachusetts Cultural Council.

Downs said, "I'd love to see them make some shows. I want them to take the knowledge I've given them and make something from it."

Mowers added, "I want to get the people who are truly interested in learning - either on camera or behind the camera - and give them a creative outlet. It is an opportunity they might not have had."

The pilot for the program started in March. The first group of students only had a short period of about five weeks to learn some of the basics of television production.

However, that group was able to produce a short 15-minute video based on a mystery of the theft of some stolen jewelry. The first group was very creative, writing and taping their script, as well as acting out the parts.

After that minor success, it was discovered that the grant was available and WCAT wrote the application. It was also discovered that Downs, who was recovering from a double stroke, still had the ability to teach television production, despite some short term memory loss.

Because of his disability, Downs was the perfect person to teach the course and satisfy the needs of VSA arts. It seems to have worked out well as observers note that Downs has an empathy for the problems his students encounter and can be very patient with them.

Once a core group of students was identified and Mowers was named by EMARC to be their instructor, the program has progressed very nicely. At present four students are taking the course: Andrea V. of Melrose; Peter A. of Winchester; Moe D. of Burlington; and Jennifer K. of Wakefield.

These people have already mastered the camera enough to film some of the work being done inside and outside of the EMARC facility in Reading. The next step is to edit the components together into a public service announcement that will be cablecast on WCAT and other area local access stations to publicize the work EMARC does.

Downs said, "Eventually I want them to learn switching (going from one camera to another in the studio), in our central control so they can do an entire show in our studio, on their own."

"I want to know they have the basics before they go into the studio to do a show. I would like to get one complete show before January."

Mowers is also looking for a complete show from her group, by January. However, as person with 15 years of social services experience she knows the members of the group very well and is looking toward the future.

There are some members she wants to keep working with on this program and others that would be happier in other artistic endeavors.

"Some people I will try to keep (in the next class rotation)," Mowers said.

She added, "Moe shows a sincere interest in everything, both behind the camera and in front."

In an interview, Moe said, "I like to work and be on TV. I've learned how to operate and feel comfortable with a camera."

He added, "I like anything with production."

Life Choices day habilitation program have had the opportunity to develop relationships with members of another community organization - WCAT.

"They are learning to be comfortable both in front of and behind the camera. They expanded their skills and self confidence through the creation of a public service announcement (PSA). The PSA showcases some of the "CHANGELING" is a movie based on true events in Depression-era Los Angeles. It contains some horrific scenes, but is worth seeing.

Movie Reviews

by Paul Feely

usual 24-hour waiting period. But Christine refuses to take no for an answer. She becomes a celebrity, thanks to Gustav Briegleb (John Malkovich), a radio-savvy preacher/activist who uses her case to criticize what he sees as corruption in City Hall.

Months go by, and detectives find a boy in the Midwest who roughly meets Walter's description. But during the highly publicized "reunion," a stunned Christine announces that the boy they've found is not Walter.

When she refuses to keep quiet about the matter, the detective (Jeffrey Donovan) in charge of the investigation makes threats to Christine about there being possible repercussions.

There's a lot more to the story than that, and director Clint Eastwood delivers a series of false endings, which make the film feel longer than its 2 1/2-hour running time.

But Jolie is convincing as the troubled mother, and the strong supporting cast is very good.

"HIGH SCHOOL MUSICAL 3: SENIOR YEAR"

GRADE: ***

The third installment of this wildly successful series is more of the same high school drama and hijinks, which is exactly what its core fans are looking for.

The plot is as follows: Albuquerque East athlete Troy Bolton (Zac Efron) is in love with Vanessa Hudgens (Gabriella Montez). They are graduating. They both are in a school musical. She's heading to Stanford, while he'll play basketball at the University of Arizona. They will be apart. What will they, and the world at large, do?

There is a second love story, too, between Chad Danforth (Corbin Blue) and Taylor McKessie (Monique Coleman). Then there are the twins, Sharpay (Ashley Tisdale) and Ryan (Lucas Grabeel) and transfer student Tiara (Jemma McKenzie-Brown). The girls are generally up to no good in a fun sort of way, with Ryan serving as the show's choreographer. One thing that they all have in common is that they can sing and dance.

East High is unrealistic, a place out of a time warp from the 1950s where everyone is nice and friendly and nobody makes fun of the way Ryan dresses or Sharpay acts or anything at all for that matter. Everything's just peachy, except for the fact that graduation is going to split up the old gang.

The strengths of the series have never been the storylines though - it's the singing and dancing, and these people know how to do it extremely well.

The songs are upbeat and nice, and the choreography is happy and uplifting. There isn't one special effect. There is no profanity, no nudity, no gratuitous sex, no bad parents, no terrible teachers, no evil people.

Just another day in happy land, where the only question left is will this one put enough money in the bank to send these kids off to college in a part 4? Time (and box office register receipts) will tell.

"W"
GRADE: **

The most unexpected aspect of Oliver Stone's "W," his film about a president with historically low approval ratings, is how much pity the director shows for his subject.

The people who love President George W. Bush will likely feel the left-of-center Stone has been too harsh on their guy, while critics of the president may see it as too sympathetic to Bush the man, evidence that Stone has successfully walked the tightrope between the two camps.

Although it has comic, speculative and surrealist moments, broad caricatures of public figures and a mis-pronunciation or two, the film's portrayal of one man's improbable trajectory from hard-drinking wise-guy with a father complex to Leader of the Free World is not the comedic roast that the trailers suggest.

"W" humanizes Bush in ways that will baffle critics of both the president and the filmmaker.

Bush, played by Josh Brodin, is pugnacious and assertive, twitchy and unfocused, engaged and engaging. His constant eating and drinking suggest an insatiable appetite and restless nature. Overwhelmed by family expectations, he spends his youth drowning his inadequacies in Jack Daniel's and Lone Star.

Because W's presidency is still underway, the film's portrait of the years in the White House - taken from books about the Bush presidency - feels unfinished and the film ends with a whimper.

"Dancing with Jewish Identity: Hatzaad Harishon and New York's Black Jews" Nov. 17

Hatzaad Harishon (H.H.)—a biracial non-profit organization founded by white, liberal Jews—was the first organization specifically formed to foster interaction and unity among the black and white Jewish communities in New York.

They held their first meeting eight days after the Civil Rights Act was passed in 1964 and eventually folded in 1972 at the height of the Black Power movement.

This talk discusses the ways that Hatzaad Harishon and their black Jewish youth group worked successfully to achieve increased legitimacy and recognition for Black Jews in New York.

Janice Fernheimer received her Ph.D. in Rhetoric, Writing, and American Literature from the University of Texas at Austin in 2006. She has a full-time appointment at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, New York where she teaches undergraduate writing courses.

She is currently a Scholar-in-Residence at the Hadassah Brandeis Institute in Waltham where she is working on her book manuscript Steppin' Into Zion: The Rhetoric of Black Jewish Identity from Civil Rights to Black Power, which is based on her nationally recognized doctoral thesis.

Sponsored by the Sisterhood of Temple Emmanuel in Wakefield. The time is 7:30 p.m., this program is open to all who are interested. The talk is free. www.TempleEmmanuelWakefield.org 781-245-1886

About the Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

WCRC, WWC, CCP: LETTER PERFECT, A NEW WORLD

Expecting company: Woburn

"Local Woburn resident David Kimmelman is thrilled to announce the formation of the Woburn Community Rep Company (WCRC)," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Forming as a non-profit 501(c)(3) community repertory theater company, the WCRC mission is to deliver quality theatrical productions with the intent of contributing profits to Woburn Memorial High School's theater and music endeavors."

"Additionally, the WCRC has a goal of educating and mentoring local Woburn students on various aspects of theater arts including but not limited to, Design and Construction, Lighting Design, Stage Management, Pops, Directing, Acting and more."

"Kimmelman brings almost 40 years of professional and semi-professional music and theater experience to this venture."

"All shows will be rehearsed and performed at the state of the art theater in Woburn Memorial High School."

"The WCRC was looking to raise a minimum of $10,000 for its inaugural production which took place last month."

"They performed the Pulitzer Prize winning play, Rabbit Hole by David Lindsay-Abaire."

"Rabbit Hole is the story of Becca and Howie Corbett who have everything a family could want, until a life-shattering accident turns their world upside down and leaves the couple drifting perilously apart...."

"Rehearsals do not conflict with school sports or any other after school programs. Contact David at (781) 933-5118 or dkimmelman@verizon.net. The WCRC is also seeking adult volunteers to help with set construction and other tasks."

Crossing: Wilmington

"Is Wilmington really walkable?" notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"Yes! The Healthy Wilmington Coalition and the Wilmington Walks campaign want residents to know that Wilmington is home to a variety of walking trails that offer free and plentiful places that are open to the public for residents to step out and get some exercise."

"The Healthy Wilmington Coalition received a planning grant in 2006 from Lahey Clinic and Community Health Network Alliance that enabled them to hire a consultant, brainstorm, discuss, and even create focus groups to determine their best first course of action."

"The result was a healthy walk (Wilmington Walks Campaign) and trail-cleanup effort in which they hope for substantial community involvement. Under the guidance of Facilitator Tammy Dowley Blackman and Coalition Chair Dr. Jane Williams-Vale, the group examined several trails in Wilmington and spent three Sundays in May and June cleaning the Rotary Park Trail and Town Hall Park Trails in anticipation of a Labor Day weekend kickoff event."

"Directions and descriptions for several trails may be found on the website www.healthywilmingtoncoalition.org. These trails include The Town Park Trail, which is located at 700 Main Street, right off of Route 38 in South Wilmington...."

Taking the pledge: Reading

"The Reading Advisory Committee on Cities for Climate Protection (CCP) want you to take the pledge - the 1-2-3 Pledge to reduce electric usage in your home," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Members of the CCP recently appeared before the Board of Selectmen to explain the pledge to board members, as well as to residents through RCTV."

"The pledge reads like this: 'I pledge to reduce my home's electric usage by 10% over the next 12 months.'"

"The Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) Board of Commissioners have agreed to take on the challenge to reduce their homes' electric energy usage by 10% over the next year."

"CCP kicked off its annual effort to reduce greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions by asking residents to take their annual 1-2-3 pledge, concentrating on electric usage reduction. In 2006, CCP urged reduction of energy, transportation and waste and in 2007 solely on transportation.

"According to CCP members, Reading residential electric bills average about $1,250 a year with an average monthly usage of 725 kWh's."

"We are asking you to reduce your annual usage by 10% of your electric bill over the next 12 months. Your kWh history is printed on the electric bill each month, making it easy to compare your efforts to the prior year's usage. Make this a family project, writes the CCP at its website."

"As part of helping to make your personal pledge a reality, CCP members have provided helpful information on quick and easy no-cost and low-cost ways to reduce energy use and cost...."

"About the Towns" covers recent events in the 10-town Middlesex East area. Chicken and corn chowder...

Delicious meal for diabetic

When it comes to daily diets, most people can approach what they eat with little regard for concerns greater than gaining a pound or two. Particularly for younger people, what they eat isn't so much a concern as how much they eat and how much they exercise.

For others, however, diet can be a significant consideration regardless of their age. Diabetics, for example, must remain careful about what they eat at all times. For some, a meal plan designed with a physician is the way to go. For others who have lived with diabetes for years, they can likely gauge what's right for them depending on the type of diabetes they have and the treatment they're receiving.

But diabetes doesn't need to keep you from enjoying meals that are both delicious and healthy. Such is the case with the following recipe for "Chicken and Corn Chowder" courtesy of FoodFit.com, an online resource that emphasizes healthy eating and active living. With a host of diabetes-friendly recipes in addition to fitness tips, FoodFit.com can help anyone, whether they're diabetic or not, live a healthier and more active lifestyle.

Chicken and Corn Chowder

Serves 6

- 2 large ears of corn, shucked
- 1 slice uncooked bacon, diced
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 1 sprig fresh thyme
- 1 bay leaf
- 6 small red potatoes
- 1 1/2 cup low-sodium chicken or vegetable broth
- 2 cups reduced fat (2%) milk
- 1 red pepper, diced
- 1 pound boneless, skinless chicken breasts, cut into 1/2-inch pieces
- 1 teaspoon chopped, fresh dill
- Salt to taste
- Freshly ground black pepper

1. Preheat the grill or broiler.

2. Grill or broil the corn until it turns golden brown. Set aside to cool.

3. Put the bacon in a soup pot and heat over low heat. Add the onion, celery, thyme, and bay leaf. Turn the heat up to medium, and cook until the vegetables are soft, about 10 minutes.

4. Meanwhile, slice the corn kernels from the cob.

5. Dice the potatoes and add them to the soup pot with the chicken broth. Simmer until the potatoes are just tender, about 10 minutes. Add the milk, peppers, chicken, and dill and cook until the chicken is just cooked through. Remove the thyme and bay leaf. Adjust the salt and pepper and serve.

Breakfast is key to students learning

Healthy mind, healthy body

The positive effects that eating breakfast has on students' performance in school continues to grow as more schools are serving breakfast. The School Breakfast Program has been in place for about 40 years, and today more than nine million children eat school breakfast everyday.

Students who ate breakfast at school had general increases in math grades and reading scores, better attention levels, improved classroom behavior and performance as well as reduced school nurse visits, according to a recent study by the University of Minnesota and Minnesota Dept. of Children, Families & Learning.

School breakfasts are required to meet federal dietary guidelines and provide students with 25 percent of their daily allowance for protein, calcium, iron, vitamins A and C, and calories. Meals are served in age-appropriate portion sizes and schools have many different serving techniques - from 'grab and go' bags and hallway kiosks to breakfast in the classroom and traditional cafeteria service. Many schools are offering breakfast at no cost to students because of the proven value of eating breakfast.

SPORTS SHORTS

*MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: Who was the first NHL goalie to wear a mask?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•No. 23 Harvard entered this week's game ranked ninth nationally in passing yards per game but the Crimson flipped its script on Saturday, churning out 368 rushing yards in a 35-7 whitewashing against Dartmouth in an Ivy League game at Memorial Field.

QB CHRIS PIZZOTTI (READING) ran for two first half touchdowns and threw for another on his only snap of the second half.

Harvard threw the ball just three times in the second half and finished things up with 32 consecutive run plays.

Harvard also entered the game as one of three teams in the country to lead its conference in total offense while ranking last in time of possession. The Crimson defense was kept fresh as the offense controlled things from the start and chewed 39:32 off the clock while outgaining Dartmouth, 466-123 on the day.

After a quick three-and-out by Dartmouth on its opening possession, Harvard took over at Big Green 42-yard line following a punt and a personal foul. The Crimson converted a fourth-and-one outside the DC 30 and Pizzotti later took a QB keeper 11 yards to the end zone for an early 7-0 lead.

As play moved to the second quarter, Patrick Long put the Crimson ahead 10-0 with a 34-yard field goal to finish off a 10-play, 49-yard drive covering 3:51 off the clock.

Harvard took momentum into halftime as the Crimson scored twice in the final two minutes of the half. First, a 4:04 drive saw Pizzotti collect his second rushing touchdown of the day on a two-yard scramble to the goal line with 1:59 remaining. The Crimson, which started at its 13-yard line, drove 10 plays and 93 yards after being pushed back on a penalty behind Gordon who carried the ball four times for 49 yards including a 31 yarder which moved the ball from mid-field deep into Big Green territory.

In the second half, Harvard was forced to punt after its opening series but Dartmouth fumbled the punt and Matthew Thomas recovered on the 20-yard line. Pizzotti, flushed from the pocket on first down, rolled out to the left and found tight end Jason Miller alone at the 10. Miller turned up-field and received a good block enabling him to ramble home for a touchdown. The extra point was blocked but Harvard held a 26-0 lead in what would be Pizzotti's lone snap of the half.

Pizzotti finished 12-for-18 through the air for 98 yards for Harvard while Eric Schultz led the defense with four tackles (three solo) and a sack for 11 yards.

*KAYLA HARRISON, OF PEDRO'S JUDO CENTER, IN WAKEFIELD, went 5-0 to win gold at the Junior Worlds. Harrison is only the third American ever to win this prestigious title. Harrison matched PJC teammate Ronda Rousey's 2004 performance where Rousey also went 5-0 to win gold.

Kayla's gold is the third consecutive Junior World medal for Pedro's Judo Center. The Junior Worlds is the 3rd largest event on the planet next to the Olympics and Senior World Championships. History shows that many of the athletes who win medals at the Junior World Championships go on to medal at the Senior Worlds and Olympics.

Harrison started her day by beating Steffani Lupetti of Brazil by Wazari (1/2 point). Next up for Kayla was an important match with Katarzyna Furmanek (POL). This was a must win match for Harrison as new rules only allow players who advance to the quarter-final to continue in the tournament. Harrison threw the Polish player for a full point at the 1:45 mark in the match.

Kayla's quarter-final opponent was Nino Odzelashvili, of Georgia. Harrison dispatched the Georgian player in just 26 seconds throwing her for Wazari and then again for Ippon (full point).

Harrison squared off against Ruika Sato of Japan in the Semi-final which she won by yuko (quarter point). This win sent Harrison to the gold medal match with European Champion Audrey Tcheumeo (FRA). This was Harrison's second meeting with Tcheumeo, as Kayla had previously beaten the French woman in February at the Belgian Open in Arlon Belgium.

Harrison showed no signs of nerves in the gold medal match as she took it to the Frenchwoman scoring yuko early on and winning the match by ippon at the 2:32 mark.

The Junior Worlds, which were once held every other year, will now be held annually giving 18 year old Harrison a chance to defend her title and become the first American ever to be crowned double Junior World Champion.

Securities from S-10

ties that were festering in the global market. As part of the bank rescue plan, President Bush requested bids from managers of mortgage-backed securities.

With this historic government intervention, the topic of mortgage-backed securities has been mentioned on many occasions. They have been a drain on the economy and contributed to this financial crisis, contributing to the insolvency of many banks and investment firms that have been around for decades. But many people aren't quite sure just what mortgage-backed securities are.

For home repair: keep it simple, keep it 'green'

How big is your footprint on the earth? America is going leaner and greener and so can you. Even if you can't afford to build a state of the art, environmentally correct new home or totally remodel the one you have to be more energy efficient, you can take some steps that will ease the drain on the earth's resources and your pocket book.

If you have a limited budget, address the most obvious energy "thieves" in your home. Energy efficient heating and air conditioning units and appliances are investments that pay off in the long run with lower energy bills. So when they break, replace them with Energy Star-rated models. If you can't afford to swap out those single pane, air-leaking windows for energy efficient units, at least seal them. A low cost and earth friendly practice is to conserve water by repairing leaky fixtures and installing low flow showerheads, faucets and toilets. And start using energy efficient and increasingly affordable lighting.

One thing that we can all do right now is ease the pressure on our landfills by fixing what we have with earth friendly products. The old myth that if it is "green," it's not strong enough to do the job, is no longer true. Improved technology is bringing us high performing green products. We also need to look for green products that couple performance with versatility. We can no longer afford a garage or cabinet full of "specialty" products that are designed to do only one thing.

Cozy Alpine floor plan

The mortgage-backed securities (MBS) market came into play in the early 1980s. Before then each mortgage was a separate transaction from a bank. With MBSs, companies such as the now defunct Bear Stearns or Lehman Brothers buy several mortgages from a primary lender, which is the company from which you actually received your mortgage. This "pool" of mortgages is used by investment banks that use your monthly payments, and those of thousands of others whose mortgages have been bought out, as the revenue stream to pay investors who have bought chunks of the securities offering. This scenario allows smaller lenders to replenish funds and continue to sell mortgages to the people who want them. Though many firms dabble in mortgage-backed securities, most MBSs are issued by the Government National Mortgage Association (Ginnie Mae), a U.S. government agency, or the Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae) and the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (Freddie Mac), U.S. government-sponsored enterprises.

In a good economy with a stable housing market and relatively low interest rates, MBSs may be a sound investment. Mortgage payments are made on time, and the people or companies that bought the mortgage-backed securities receive a steady stream of payments. But when the housing market isn't faring well, interest rates rise, and people who took out "creative mortgages" have trouble making their payments.

As was the case during the latter half of 2008 in the U.S., problems can arise. Owners of mortgage-backed securities are no longer receiving steady payments, and firms that borrow heavily to finance the purchase of these securities find they cannot remain solvent. Foreclosures also have a large impact because owners of MBSs are not receiving any payments.

This week's sampler: The Alpine

Cozy alpine centers around family space

A lofty vaulted great room and entry form the core of the Alpine. This cozy, single-level home could be easily adapted for wheelchair accessibility.

This large space is naturally bright as well. Sunlight streams in through windows that rim most of the rear wall, while atrium doors in the nook swing open to access a partially covered patio.

None of the family living areas are fully enclosed. Great room and nook are separated by nothing more than a peninsular fireplace, which can be enjoyed from the great room, nook or kitchen.

The C-shaped kitchen wraps around a large work island that has an eating bar on one side. Families who like to cook together will appreciate the added work space, along with the storage cabinets below. A large walk-in pantry is tucked in the corner.

Utilities are located in a pass-through space to the garage, convenient to the kitchen and secondary bedrooms as well. So if you get muddy working in the garden, you can take off your dirty things in the utility room then finish sprucing up in the bathroom right across the hall. Its central location makes for quick access from anywhere in the house, with the exception of the master suite, which has its own private bathroom.

Amenities in the Alpine's master bathroom include a dual vanity, spa tub, shower, and large walk-in closet. The master suite is vaulted and has a wide, boxed-out window, designed to accommodate a window seat.

What are mortgage-backed securities?

In October 2008, U.S. President George W. Bush signed into law a bill for a $700 billion financial rescue plan to stabilize the economy. Among the items the government would be purchasing were "toxic" securi-
